GLENDALE NIGHT HIGH SCHOOL HOLDS FIRST ASSEMBLY OF THE YEAR

"War Demonstrated Possibility of Creation of Experts in Short Time," Declares Veirling Kersey of Los Angeles Polytechnic

COMPARES LAST FIVE WITH FUTURE YEARS

Warns Students That Absence of Pupils Reduces Funds and Points to Dropping Out as Duplication of Industrial Labor Turn-over

The first assembly of the year of the night school, of which A. L. Ferguson is principal, was held Thursday evening at Glendale Union high school at 7:45, the attendance well filling the auditorium.

The speaker of the evening was Veirling Kersey, principal of the night school of Poly High, Los Angeles, which last year had an enrollment something over 11,000, and which has had an actual nightly attendance for the past thirty days of over 3800 students, said to be the largest group of students getting together regularly in one place in the evening, in the United States.

He presented in an inspiring way the opportunities offered by night schools, dwelling on the fine class of people who take advantage of them and whom it is a pleasure to instruct because of their enthusiasm and response.

"The war," he said, "demonstrated that it is possible in a short time to create experts in various lines, and this fact has been a factor in promoting the tremendous attendance on evening schools. The people realize that there are possibilities of great gains from any time they spend in such schools."

He dwelt on waste time and asked those present to reckon up how much their evenings in the past five years had amounted to and to compare that result with the possibilities of the next five years if they continue the work on which they have started.

Commenting on the change in enrollment and on the people who start and then drop out, he contrasted it with the change of workers in industries saying that a turn-over in labor as a whole in Los Angeles occurs every three months, i. e. for every hundred men that have steady employment in some one particular industry, that industry during the year employs 400 different individuals. When that state of affairs is compared with evening school conditions, he argued, it reflects credit on the stick-to-itiveness of the evening school people.

The assembly consumed 15 minutes of the first period and 15 minutes of the second period, but great satisfaction was expressed by many who attended and voiced the general sentiment that it was well worth while.

Mr. Ferguson made a brief talk on the manner in which the evening school is financed, making clear the fact that while its students are not asked to directly contribute to its support, any absence on their part reduces the funds of the school just as does the absence of day pupils.

He also gave a talk on the coming high school bond issue explaining the prospective enrollment and necessity for more room, the crowded conditions at present and the inadequacy of the plant. He explained the necessity of providing accommodations to properly take care of the enrollment the school is certain to have.

NEW SECTION OF TUESDAY CLUB TO ORGANIZE

First Meeting to Be Held at Home of Mrs. Benjamin Holbrook, Curator

The first meeting of the Legislative Section of the Tuesday afternoon Club was called on the 11th of October at the home of the Curator Mrs. Benjamin Holbrook. Helen A. MacDonald acted as secretary pro tem.

The curator recommended that the club have an Open Form meeting the club have an Open Forum meeting in order that the women of Glendale might be informed in an attractive way on at least a few of the important bills that are coming up on our fall ballot.

Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson set forth the need of arousing the women voters from their indifference to the making of the laws of the country. So few realize the responsibility they should assume in this matter.

The afternoon of October 31st was named as an opportune time for this Open Forum meeting, and arrangements were made for that date.

It was decided there was time only to cover the four following: The Wright Bill, the Veterans, Aid, the Water and Power act, and the Tax Initative. Ten-minute speakers for and against will be present.

All publicity posible should be given this meeting by churches, clubs, and societies.

A motion was made and seconded that the invitation extended by Mrs. C. E. Hutchinson to meet at her home on Wednesday morning, October 18th, be accepted.

ELKS' BAND IS TO PLAY ON HI STEPS

Public Concert of Sacred Music to Be Given in Afternoon

A concert will be given by the Glendale Elks band on the steps of the Glendale Union high school next Sunday afternoon between the hours of 2:30 and 4 o'clock. The afternoon concerts will be held in the future on account of the evenings being too cold for outdoor feaures of this kind. It is the intention of the band to put on sacred concerts from time to time and to incorporate strictly religious numbers in all of their programs.

The Elks' band will play tonight and Saturday afternoon at the state convention of the Elks' lodge, which will be held at Santa Monica.

SAN FERNANDO GUESTS TO BE ENTERTAINED

Chamber of Commerce to Receive Visit from Valley Organization

The October 24th meeting of the Glendale chamber of commerce will be in the form of a reception to about one hundred members of the San Fernando chamber of commerce. The affair will be held at 6:30 when a dinner will be held, after which the evening will be given to speeches and other interesting features. For this event a number of outside speakers are being arranged for and several prominent Glendale people will be heard from.

Secretary Rhoades of the chamber of commerce is issuing an invitation to the people of Glendale to be present at this event, regardless of whether they are members of the chamber or not. The only requirement is that everyone who expects to be present call the chamber and make reservations for himself and as many as he expects to take. A special invitation is being extended to the business men of Glendale, for there will be a number of features at that meeting that will be of especial interest to them.

Thoughtful Thief Returns Automobile

Machines are often stolen, but it is seldom that the thieves return the car to the point from which it was taken. C. Thrasher of 432 Piedmont Park, reported to the Glendale police yesterday, that his car was stolen from Adams near Broadway at an early hour last night. For several hours he searched for the missing auto, after which he returned to the place from which it was stolen, only to find that the car had been returned.

IOWA CONFRONTS YALE WITH GRIN OF CONFIDENCE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 13.—Out of the west, not unlike young Lochinvars of old, come eleven or more husky Hawkeye gridiron warriors to test the mettle of old Eli in the year's big intersectional football battle.

East and West are stirred over the contest as never before in midseason. Fair weather is promised for the battle, crackling football air such as a late Indian summer had not yet provided, and 50,000 spectators are expected for the contest.

The Yale-Iowa game tomorrow has called society, old-time football heroes and pigskin fans from all parts of the east to New Haven. Some have come from the Mississippi valley, scene of Iowa's conclusive victory over western conference opponents last year.

It will be inspiration against tradition when the big teams meet. The Hawkeye eleven will be carrying the west's challenge to eastern claims of football supremacy. Old Eli will be brought in to defend the claim.

Picking a winner is easy. Only a tie can baffle the prophets.

Coach Jones' men should triumph. Brother Howard directs the Iowa team and Brother Tad the Yale eleven, so it will be all in the family, however it comes out. Out in Excello, Ohio, where the Jones boys hail from, Mother Jones is all excited; no less, the townsfolk who are split 50-50, the entire hundred of them.

Yale will be severely handicapped by probable absence of Doc Jordan, her captain, and two of her field generals, Becket and O'Hearn. The blue lineup is otherwise upset by early season injuries, but Tad Jones will have two bright young men, hitherto untried in a big game, upon whom he can rely.

Captain Jordan Locke of Iowa will be the hardest man to stop that Yale has tackled since George Owen plowed up the bulldog line last fall.

The kickoff will be at 2:30.

BAY CITY WINS ELKS' PRIZE TEAM DRILL

SANTA MONICA, OCT. 13.—San Francisco last night won the ritualistic of the B. P. O. E., held here, it was announced today.

The ratings of the competing teams was given as follows:

San Francisco, ...99.414
Sacramento, ...99.075.
Riverside, ...98.975.

THIEF STEALS CHECK

Among several things that were stolen from the home of Mrs. W. H. Huren of 1245 South Mariposa street, recently was a check for $50, according to a report made to the police by Mr. Huren yesterday. Payment on the check has been stopped.

STUDENTS TO ORGANIZE HI BOND DRIVE

MISS TOUSEY REPORTS

Body Discusses Assemblies Candidates of Students' Offices

An especially called cabinet meeting was held at Glendale high Thursday afternoon to talk over ways and means of boosting for the high school bond issue to be voted upon October 20. Miss Isabel Tousey reported upon her talk before the Tuesday Afternoon club, and provision was made for a cabinet member to address the high school P.-T. A. at its meeting next Wednesday afternoon at 3:15.

There was discussion of the fall variety show and the date was set for the week beginning December 11, probably on Thursday and Friday.

Petitions are out for several candidates for the office of Secretary of Assemblies and arrangements were made for two assemblies Monday and two Tuesday at roll periods, which would be addressed by the candidates.

The vacancy in the office was caused by the resignation of Allan Pollock to accept the presidency of the senior class.

The committee on constitutional amendments composed of Miss Sherwood, chairman, Paul Edmonds and Isabel Tousey, was called upon and promised a definite report for the next meeting. The idea of the special amendments proposed is to provide fuller class representation in the cabinet.

Three Machines Touch and Smash

Three automobile accidents occurred in Glendale yesterday. Machines operated by R. O. Street of 319 West Vine street and W. E. Arnold of Eagle Rock, collided at the corner of Los Feliz and Brand boulevard at 11:45 o'clock last night. No one was injured.

H. D. Clark of 512 West Doran and Oscar L. Chinning of Hollywood were pilots of automobiles that came together at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the corner of Brand and Belmont street. The cars were somewhat damaged, but no one was hurt.

W. W. Hunt an employee of the Glendale post office, was driving a machine that collided with an automobile driven by Winslow W. Felix of Los Angeles, the accident taking place at 6:30 o'clock last night at the corner of Brand and Broadway. No one was hurt.

THE WEATHER

Southern California: Tonight and Saturday fair except cloudy or foggy in morning near coast.

DYING MAN FOUND NEAR S. P. TRACK

Believed to Be C. Yenker, Picked Up at Burbank Intersection of Railroad

A man believed to be C. Yenker, aged about 40 years and whose home is believed to be in Los Angeles, was picked up at the side of the Southern Pacific track in Burbank at 8 o'clock this morning in a dying condition. He was struck by a Southern Pacific train, the accident taking place close to the interesection of the railroad and Magnolia avenue.

Yenker was walking along the track and evidently did not hear the train, which approached from behind. The only mark of identification was an employment agency slip, which bore the name of C. Yenker.

Yenker was severely injured, a number of his ribs being broken and the victim receiving serious internal injuries. He was removed to the county hospital in Los Angeles, where it is believe he cannot recover.

ROTARIANS HEAR FINE PROGRAM AT LUNCHEON

Judge Avery of Los Angeles Addresses Organization

About 35 Rotarians enjoyed the fine program arranged by Ed Hewitt and his associates, Ed Jones, "France" Henry and Paul Carson for the luncheon meeting of the Glendale Rotarians Thursday noon. Ed Hewitt presided during the program, Paul Carson gave a piano solo and served as accompanist for a whistling solo, contributed by Mrs. Carson. "France" Henry sang a couple of Scotch songs and Judge Avery of Los Angeles was introduced by the chairman. His theme was the judicial system of the county, the work that has been done and the honest effort put into it. He declared that one of the greatest needs is, not better judges, better laws nor more courts, but improvement in the personnel of jurors. The enforcement of law could be better served, he insisted, if the courts could have jurors intelligent enough to bring in findings free from personal prejudice. He urged all present to not only accept the call to jury service, but to volunteer and persuade their friends to do the same.

Board of Directors In Special Meeting

A special meeting of the board of directors of the Glendale chamber of commerce will be held Monday night at 7:30 o'clock. The purpose of the meeting will be to consider the time of the regular weekly meetings of the board—whether before or after the weekly forum meeting of the chamber.

RANDALL IS GUEST AT BANQUET IN HIS HONOR

Candidate Appeals for Votes to Pass the Wright Act

The large dining room of the Glendale sanitarium was filled to overflowing last evening with the friends of C. H. Randall, candidate for congress from the district. A representative group of Glendale voters, men and women, who approve his past services in congress and desire his return, were present.

The banquet was served promptly at 7 o'clock and was up to the high standards of the sanitarium.

A fine musical program was rendered by the following persons: Miss Bernice Latimer, piano solo; Mrs. Rita Nelson, vocal solo; Frank Butterfield, vocal solo; Arthur Billington, vocal solo; Miss Elizabeth Mottern, vocal solo; Dr. Joseph Marple, vocal solo; Miss Helen Smith, Don C. Lindley and Mrs. Belle A. Johnson accompanists.

Wm. H. Reeves, Assistant Secretary Sanders of the chamber of commerce, Rev. T. C. Yeoman, Frank Muhleman, Prof. Arthur Brown, Mrs. Nettie S. Jones, Mrs. Hattie Gaylord, Mattison B. Jones of Glendale and W. Phillips of Los Angeles.

They all expressed warm friendship for Mr. Randall, their appreciation of his services, the need of independent men at Washington and their determination to vote for his re-election on November 7th.

M. Randall made the closing address. He expressed his appreciation for the hearty reception given to him and the many kind words expressed. He presented an able review of the 18th amendment, calling it the greatest piece of legislation ever enacted, also one of the most popular, in that 46 out of the 48 states at once adopted it. Also that 46 states promptly adopted laws concerning enforcement acts. But shameful to relate, he said, the great state of California was not one of them. And as a result, he said, "we have invited criminals and law-breakers to come here.

Robberies, holdups, and other crimes are the direct result.

"When you go to vote," said Mr. Randall, "turn your ballot to the amendments—vote yes on No. 2. This is more important than any candidate."

He closed his address by a strong plea for increased interest in elections and of placing patriotism above party strife.

TURKS SWARM NEUTRAL ZONE AT ISMID

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 13.—The Kemalists broke their pledge to the allies today when 4000 swarmed into the Ismid area of the neutral zone as far as Tapeuren.

The Turks, on the eve of the day the armistice is to go into effect, entered the forbidden area at Airan and penetrated several miles to Tapeuren.

Sir James Harrington immediately sent a courier by airplane warning the commander of the invaders to withdraw.

This infraction of the agreement led the allies to become apprehensive that they would have much difficulty in forcing the Turks to live up to their agreement.

General Harington was in frequent conference with allied representatives today, pointing out to them the necessity of calling an early permanent peace conference.

ARMOUR REFUSES INFORMATION TO FEDERAL PROBE

CHICAGO, Oct. 13.—J. Ogden Armour, packer and grain dealer, today declined to give the federal trade commission, investigating the grain market, information regarding his deals on the Chicago board of trade.

Armour refused to answer all questions asked by board members.

Alfred Austrian, attorney for Armour, stated that he had advised the witness not to answer because he did not have full information regarding the deals.

"Members of the office force have the books which show the deals, and the commission has those books under investigation now," Austrian said.

BARBERS ANNOUNCE HOURS

Announcement has been made that commencing October 16, all barber shop hours will be from 8 a. m. until 6 p. m., with the exception of Saturdays when they will remain open until 9 p. m.

W. C. T. U. Sextette Which Will Play Before Chamber of Commerce to Draw Audience for the Big Wright Rally

All the ladies are officials of the county organization, including Mrs. Lily Richardson and Mrs. Marie M. Yeoman, county president, both of Glendale

One of the most important contributions to the campaign of education which is preceding the November election, is being made by the Women's Christian Temperance Union in the program it has arranged for a meeting to be held Saturday night of the present week, at the auditorium of the chamber of commerce building.

Fighting Bob Shuler, whose splendid oratory has stirred Glendale more than once, will be the speaker of the evening, his theme being "Americanism and the California Crisis." He will touch on several measures which will be before the people for action in November, and all good citizens seeking enlightenment to aid them in contributing an intelligent vote should attend this meeting.

Mr. Shuler is in great demand and Glendale has been extremely fortunate to secure him. He is a magnetic, arresting speaker, able to make use of humor as well as invective in vividly enforcing the truths he is presenting.

Music will be furnished by a sextette of ladies, all officials of the county W. C. T. U., whose portraits are here presented. Two of them are Glendale citizens—Mrs. Lily Richardson and Mrs. Marie M. Yeoman, county president.

This sextette will give a fine street program in front of the chamber of commerce building at 7:30 Saturday evening, Mr. Shuler's address following at 8, in the chamber auditorium. It should draw a very large attendance.

GLENDALE ADVANCEMENT ASSOCIATION COMPLETES HOTEL AND RAIL DRIVES

Announcement Made at Luncheon of Organization When Mr. Twining Undertakes Completion of Small Deficit of Total Bonus Asked for Rails

HOTEL ESCROW TO END THIS MORNING

Both Drives of Young Association Reach Maturity Upon the Same Day, Enabling Attention to Be Directed Toward Other Matters on Program

Thursday was a red letter day for the Glendale Advancement association, in that it witnessed the practical consummation of two great enterprises on which it has been working, enterprises which mean considerable to the eastern portion of the city, but even more to Glendale at large. But it was accepted with chastened joy by those who have become thin and worn by the strenuous campaigns by which the two things have been put over, and with possibly some shame by those who have done the hurrahing and let "George" do the work.

On behalf of the hotel committee Mrs. Mabel Tight reported a telephone message from Attorney Shellenberger acting for the hotel company, and from Mr. Whitney, also representing the company, assuring her that the last detail of the escrow would be closed that day and that the papers would have been placed in the bank but for the face that it was a holiday. They declared that final action would be taken Friday morning and nothing remained to hold back the beginning of actual building operations.

In view of this report members of the hotel committee arranged to hold a meeting Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

The other big project, the raising of the bonus fund of $25,000 for electrifying Glendale avenue for the use of the Glendale-Montrose line and thus securing connection with the yellow car line in Los Angeles, was brought to a climax when Mr. Hayselden, chairman of the committee which has had the matter in charge, reported subscriptions totalling $20,500, and the necessity of effective work to raise the other $4,500. He proposed to do it by going over the field and securing additional subscriptions from those who had promised more money should it be needed.

At this point W. L. Twining, of the Newport Company, took occasion to roast to a finish "the fastest growing city" as a piker and four flusher for having so little appreciation of a project of so great a value and importance that it had been necessary to spend six weeks in raising such a paltry sum. He pointed out that money subscribed is very different from money in hand and said he was going away and very anxious to get the matter closed up before leaving. He therefore made the proposition if the committee would collect $21,000 in cash between now and Wednesday he would undertake to get the other $4,000.

There was some talk of the impossibility of collecting all the small subscriptions in so short a time, and Herman Nelson said in many cases notes which would be as good as cash could be had and the bank would guarantee many subscriptions.

Peter Ferry, who had received an enthusiastic welcome when he appeared as a guest, said if he understood aright, all Mr. Twining asked was a satisfactory guarantee that the money would be forthcoming, and he would be willing to join the members of the committee, Mr. Hayselden, Mr. Ingledue and Mr. Nelson, in giving that guarantee, which statement was received with applause.

Mr. Twining accepted this interpretation, the gentlemen of the committe agreed to the proposal and it was agreed that the proposition had been "put over." The announcement being received with more applause.

Charles E. Stanley, chairman of the post office committee, reported a communication from Congressman Lineberger stating that he is doing everything possible to secure from the department the branch post office for Glendale.

Dr. Jessie Russell explained it had not been possible for her to secure County Health Officer Pomeroy to speak on the sewer situation of Glendale as promised for the reason that he was called north, but as a substitute speaker she introduced Mr. John Orput, representative of "Community Service, Incorporated," which is a national organization supported by wealthy men and women of the United States who believe that the organization of communities for a program of healthy amusement will do much to solve social unrest and problems of delinquency. He explained the sort of organization which has been effected in about 200 cities and which has realized the hopes of promoters, and said he came to Glendale at the request of a group of citizens. His talk was followed with close attention and at its close the association voted its indorsement of the proposition for Glendale.

Mayor Robinson was called upon for a report of the conference which representatives of the city government had with members of the Los Angeles City Council concerning connection for Glendale with the proposed big outfall sewer. He referred the matter to Dr. Jessie Russell who reported that the Los Angeles Council exhibited a very fair attitude indicating that if the preliminaries can be worked out satisfactorily in the matter of engineering problems and water supply, Los Angeles will place no obstacles in the way of a tie-up of Glendale with the sewer system of that city. She expressed the hope that the Glendale Council would arrange for a survey by the health authorities, water board and engineers to decide the most practicable place for the connection to be made.

Mr. Twining also addressed the association relative to the disfiguring billboard nuisance and asked the association to go on record as requesting the council to enforce its ordinance against such signs including those of his own company on Glendale avenue and Verdugo road. The suggestion was adopted and Mr. Twining and Mr. Kinch were named to carry the request to the council.

Mayor Robinson assured the association the enforcement of the ordinance had already been considered by the council which would welcome the request.

COMRADE HULL IS BACK FROM BIG ENCAMPMENT

Comrade Tom Hull of West Colorado street, has just returned from the national G. A. R. encampment at Des Moines and reports it was a very inspiring affair. More than 15,000 veterans were in the parade which required two and one half hours to pass a given point.

Mr. Hull had the pleasure of seeing the old flag carried by his regiment in the Civil war, which, with other similar flags, is now hermetically sealed in a glass case to protect it from dissolution.

Everything possible for the pleasure and comfort of the visitors was done by Des Moines, which laid itself out to make this encampment the finest ever held. Hotel and restaurant charges were reasonable, all the street cars were placarded with invitations to ride free, and the autos bore cards bearing the legend, "Hop In."

After the encampment closed Mr. Hull went to his old home town, Winfield, Iowa, to visit old friends and relatives and from there to Muscatine for the reunion of his regiment, only fourteen members presenting themselves.

Later he went to Kansas City to see more relatives. On the homeward journey he made a stop at Albuquerque, N. M., to see his stepson, Charles Karicofe and family.

In all respects it was one of the most enjoyable trips he ever made, and he was treated royally everywhere, nevertheless, Glendale looked very good to him.

SANTA ROSA ELKS LOSE BASEBALL CHAMPIONSHIP

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 13.—Anaheim's Elks were awarded the state baseball championship when their Santa Rosa brothers, forgetting the fraternal spirit, yesterday declined to accept a decision of Umpire Jack Bedford.

The game and title were forfeited to Anaheim and the match will not be played again, it was announced. The Santa Rosa men claimed that a player Bedford called out had been hit by a pitched ball. The Anaheim players offered to permit the players to bat again, but Santa Rosa rejected the compromise proposal and forefeited.

DOUG FAIRBANKS AT THE T. D. & L.

Building Fund Dance Proves Big Success; Glendale Merchants Help

Total receipts for the benefit dance given Saturday night at Glendale-Verdugo Park for the Montrose Chamber of Commerce building fund, amounted to $211.10. This affair was very well attended and proved a success in every way.

Mrs. S. Young, a member of the committee in charge, arranged for a parade for Saturday morning, and those who took part were dressed as farmers from "this small country town." The parade consisted of several machines, carrying flags and banners announcing the dance for that night.

The committee included Mrs. J. F. Scheffer, chairman; Mrs. S. Young, Mrs. C. A. Ellis, and Mrs. M. Card, and much credit is due them for the success of this affair. They did splendid work in getting donations of home made cakes, punch and coffee which were sold during the evening. In face, credit is due the people of Montrose and Glendale who are interested in the Montrose Chamber of Commerce and who helped during the evening.

A cash donation amounting to $50 was received from several of Glendale's business men who benefit most by the patronage of Montrose people, for Glendale is the only live town near Montrose which has those necessities everyone needs.

Several beautiful and artistically decorated cakes were donated and later sold for good sums. Cakes were donated by Mrs. Adams of Montrose, whose cake brought $12. This was won by Mrs. Potts who returned it to the committee to be sold again for $2 more. Mrs. Reinhardt of Montrose won it the second time.

Mr. Bilson, of the Bakerite Bakery, gave a fine cake, which brought $13. Mr. and Mrs. Hickey of Montrose won this one which was returned and sold a second time for $2 more, making a total of $15 for the one cake. It was finally taken home by Mr. Voorhees of La Crescenta. The Rollin' Pin Bake Shop was another gracious giver, its cake being beautifully decorated with pink sweet peas. This was given as a lucky spot dance prize. The Broadway Bakery's beautiful cake and another one donated by the Fancy Bakery were also given as lucky spot dance prizes. The cake donated by the Perfect System Bakery was given for a prize waltz to Miss Shaffer and Mr. Gale. The pretty cake given by the Russell Bakery had the name "Montrose" on the top and was won in a prize waltz by Mr. and Mrs. Miller of Montrose. There was only one prize waltz, but the dancers tied even so two cakes were given.

Besides these Glendale bakers, the ladies of Montrose were very kind in giving cakes which were cut and sold, disappearing very rapidly.

There were many candy donations, those 2-lb. boxes being Kaighan's, Peggy's Candy Shop, Mathews Confectionery and Ice Cream store, Walker's Home Made Candies, C. A. Stuart of the Glendale Pharmacy, Roberts and Echols Drug Store, Broadway Pharmacy, Sebastian's grocery, Pope and Toilette gave a generous 4-lb. box, which was sold for $3 and won by "George," of George's Place at Montrose. It was sold again after he had turned it over to the committee and brought a total of $10 toward the fund.

C. H. Kirkman, stationer, donated a large box of the newest stationery which was also a dance prize.

George's Place, at Montrose, donated punch, ice cream and cigarettes. Mr. Henry of the Sierra Club Beverage company, donated a large jar of his new drink, Fru-Ber-Ree punch which was delicious. The Glendale Ice Cream Company gave five gallons of ice cream, while Mr. Stanton gave 25 packages of his favorite "Royale" cookies. The good coffee served, which helped to warm up the party, was donated by Mr. Reinhardt's grocery of Montrose. Mr. Killion was responsible for this as he said he would not go unless they served good coffee. Mr. Reinus, the new grocer on Honolulu and Orangedale donated plenty of sugar for the coffee and the Crescent Creamery Company and Hanson Heights Creamery donated each one quart of cream.

The dance pavilion proved a splendid recreation center and everyone had a good time. It was very attractively decorated in Hallowe'en colors, the decorations being donated by Fisher's Variety Store, Woolworth's, Webb's Dry Goods Store, McGee's Dry Goods store, and Pendroy's Dry Goods store. Large black cats and witches were suspended on strips of yellow cloth from the rafters and they bore the numbers which were used in the lucky spot dances.

Webb's Hardware store and D. L. Gregg donated plenty of paper plates, while the Wilson-Bell Hardware store on North Brand gave six dozen spoons. They were not silver nor paper, but nickel and can be used by the Chamber of Commerce innumerable times. Barlow's Variety store gave the use of three dozen coffee cups, four sugar bowls and four cream pitchers. The Glendale Furniture store gave the use of a punch bowl and cups. These two stores were chosen for these articles as they are nearest the park and their nearness would eliminate some of the danger of breakage in transit, and the expenses of an affair like this are always heavier than most people expect.

Last but not least, the wonderful "jazz" syncopation furnished by Kelly's Shrine Club orchestra. This was certainly appreciated as was shown by the splendid crowd. A wonderful bouquet of dahlias was donated by some kind fairy whose

HERE I AM! ASK ME!

The Glendale Daily Press has arranged to present a series of articles which begin today giving information concerning the Boy Scouts of America and of the Verdugo Hills District Council, which includes the cities and communities of Glendale, Burbank, Roscoe, Sunland, Tujunga, La Crescenta, Montrose, Casa Verdugo and Eagle Rock. Look for these articles if you want to know the facts.

By HAROLD F. BENNER,

Absolutely Non-Sectarian

Recognition of God and the service to Him are fundamental in Scouting, but the movement is absolutely without any sectarian bias. Wherever it is practicable troops are organized in connection with churches of all denominations. If a scoutmaster is available in that church, he is at once put in charge of that troop. No boy is trained away from the thought of his own religious environment. This is attested by clergymen and officials of all churches. There is no guesswork about it. Scouting plays fair with the church.

Absolutely Non-Militaristic

The constitution and by-laws of the Boy Scouts of America also forbid involving the organization in any matter of political character. There is no effort or possibility of making any effort to train the boy away from his own political home environment. The scoutmaster has no more to do with politics than the school teacher or Sunday school teacher.

The question is often asked as to whether the Boy Scout movement gives military training. The answer is a decided "No." But there are certain things essential to civic uprightness and moral integrity as they are to military discipline which are taught.

Scouts do not carry guns nor are they taught tactics distinctly military in character. But the scout movement emphasizes the individual responsibility of the boy to obligations which he has voluntarily assumed. He is taught that his own oath involves obedience to discipline that he may gain efficiency. Precision of action is balanced by training to personal resourcefulness. Above all the boy is trained to courage, loyalty, truth, and manliness. These things every man needs outside military life as well as in it.

The Trail of the Scout

The Boy Scout movement has passed the experimental stage. There may be modifications of it in the future looking to even greater efficiency, but its worth has been proven so effectively that none needs to question its being a national and local asset.

The scout has written his trail in the open places of nature. Boys have by means of scouting learned to know nature and to love it. The exercise of body, mind, and soul has been in the great out-of-doors as much as possible. Healthful conditions are thus supplied for the proposed exercise in all the three fundamental lines.

The Trail in the Home

But the trail of the scout has also been blazed in the home. The boy who is taught the necessity of obedience in connection with the things he personally wanted to do cannot help taking the lesson into his home life. He will more readily obey his parents than before.

Have you known boys that didn't like to "wash behind the ears?" There have been some of these, though perhaps not in your home. The boy has difficulty in understanding that the dirt he couldn't see was over-evident to others. When the boy has been taught cleanliness by the scout method you will not have to direct his attention to such unreached areas.

But more important yet is the cleanliness of mind which the scout learns in his regular course of training. The test of promiscuous contact with boys who know too much in the wrong way will not be met among his fellow scout. Clean, right-thinking is constantly held before the scout as a standard to be maintained. If by chance the opposite for a moment shows its face the frown of the other scouts soon puts it to flight and forbids its reappearance.

Scouts do not bring the heads of parents to shame and humiliation. That is the trail of the scout in the home. Kindness, cheerfulness, and reliability taught in scouting induce a home reflex that brings smiles of happiness to parents and smooths the wrinkles from their brows.

The Glendale Daily Press has frequently indorsed the Boy Scout Movement, congratulated the leaders of it in the Verdugo Hills District on the remarkable development of the work here in the last year and called the attention of our citizens to the local and national importance of it. The Daily Press desires to see Glendale and the Verdugo Hills District the first city and territory of its size in America in the work of the Boy Scouts. If any citizen has any question to ask it will be answered by the local scout executive, who is preparing these articles. Call for Harold Benner at Glendale 2205-R or address the district office, 108 N. Brand boulevard, Glendale, California.

these sold for $1.50. Mr. Poole, one of the members, taking charge of this. Although the orchestra were well deserving of each receiving one of these beautiful flowers, they were willing that they should be sold to help swell the building fund. They were later resold for $2 and taken home by the lucky couple.

The Montrose Chamber of Commerce wishes to thank the business people of Glendale and the entire community for the support and cooperation they gave at this affair. They appreciate the spirit of good fellowship shown. Total receipts for the benefit amounted to $211.10.

"Is Mr. Perkins at home?" inquired the caller.

"Which one, sir?" asked the maid. "There are two brothers livng here."

For a moment the caller looked puzzled—then he had an idea. "The one who has a sister in St. Louis."

"THEN AND NOW"

By MISS EVA DANIELS
Read at Central Ave. P. T. A.

Years ago, while standing near a school one day,
I overheard a group of women talking.
One said, "There's a meeting of the P. T. A.
Sorry I can't attend, I'm going shopping."
At this another questioned, "What is this P. T. A.?
There's something about it in the papers almost every day.
It seems to me from what I see—the crowds"—
And here she raised her brows—
"Are not the kind I care to meet.
Do you not feel that way?"
The woman thus addressed, of all the town considered best,
Answered with a dignity, the words I'll ne'er forget,
"My dear," she said with kindly look,
"The finest cover never made a book.
The aristocracy I know is of the brain, and not of show.
The P. T. A. has sown the seeds,
From which are gathered kindly deeds,
And that was long ago."

Today—the P. T. A. in every state,
Stands like a monument so great, with deeds well done.
Famed is its name, and famous, too,
The men and women whom with it grew.
In Glendale I shall name a few
Whose push and pull have put things through.
Known to fame and a kindly soul
Is this town's beloved, Mrs. Charles H. Toll.
Dr. Jessie Russell made history in the work,
While Mrs. Eva Barton was never known to shirk.
Mrs. John Robert White, our president that was,
Has always worked with main and might
To help along the cause.
There's Mr. Moyse and Mr. White and Mrs. Hutchinson,
Ever ready when called upon with work that was well done.
I'd like to name a hundred more—you and you and you—
But I said before I started I could only name a few.
Just one thought more, if you'll agree,
Dear friends, I'll leave with you today:
'Tis this, I beg you'll stand by me
For the good of P. T. A.

PENNSYLVANIA PICNIC

If you ever lived in Penisylvania this is your call for the big picnic reunion all day Saturday, October 14, in Bixby park, Long Beach. Picknickers will bring basket dinners but hot coffee will be supplied.

County headquarters will be open all day and there will be a program of addresses and songs in the afternoon. Everyone who ever lived in the old Keystone state is invited to take a day off and see old friends again.

Mr. Blank is fond of relating how he scored off a barber who wished to make a sale. The man had just shaved him and wanted to sell him a lotion to use on his face when he shaved himself.

"Is that what you use on your customers?" asked Blank.

"No," replied the barber, "it's so expensive I cannot afford it."

"If you cannot afford it when you get 25 cents for shaving a man," returned Blank, "how do you expect me to afford it when I shave myself for nothing?"

GLENDALE JUNIOR MUSIC CLUB MEETING

The first regular meeting of the Junior Music club will be held Saturday night, October 14th at the home of Mrs. Nathan Rigdon, 224 West Doran.

As this is the first meeting of the juniors for this year and also a fine program having been arranged, a large crowd of the young people is expected.

LITTLE FELLER AT KRATKA HOME ON EAST HARVARD

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Kratka of 1127½ East Harvard street are happy over the arrival of an 8¾ pound boy, born Thursday morning at the Pasadena hospital. They have named the little newcomer, Charles, Jr.

Born to Dr. and Mrs. C. R. Lusby, 338 North Louise street, a son on Monday at the Glendale Research hospital.

First Methodist Sisterhood Meets

The Sisterhood class of the First Methodist church met in the church parlors Thursday afternoon for its regular class business meeting and social. In the absence of the president, Mrs. J. P. Lampert, the vice-president, Mrs. W. A. Maxwell presided.

During the business session the secretary reported that the class had given $103 toward the Sunday School pianos. After the business had been taken care of, a short program was given, having been arranged by Mrs. P. L. Brown.

The opening number was a selection by the Sisterhood Quartette, "Let a Little Sunshine In." The quartette is composed of Mrs. B. T. Geiger, Mrs. C. E. Russell, Mrs. Z. C. Boicourt, and Mrs. Mark Russell.

Following this Mrs. C. R. Moore entertained the class with a number of short stories which were very pleasing to the audience. The next number was a group of piano selections by Miss M. O. Marsh.

An invitation was then given the ladies to come to the banquet hall where delicious refreshments were served from tables artistically decorated in Hallowe'en colors. Each lady received a Hallowe'en favor.

Hostesses of the day were Mrs. J. L. Delaney, Miss Luella Collins, Mrs. A. E. Laaf, Mrs. S. J. Bacon and Mrs. P. L. Brown.

THE DOBSONS HOLD INFORMAL DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Dobson of 809 North Melrose avenue entertained with an informal dinner Wednesday evening in honor of the birthday anniversary of Mrs. Dobson's sister, Mrs. William P. Wallace.

Covers were laid for Captain and Mrs. Blackwood from Portland, Oregon, Mrs. George Hollister and the honoree, Mrs. William P. Wallace and the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Dobson.

Mrs. Wallace received many beautiful gifts from her family and the host of friends she has here.

NEWTONS HOLD BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Newton of 521 North Jackson street entertained Thursday evening with a dinner party in honor of the birthday of Mr. Newton's mother, Mrs. W. R. Newton.

Red and white cosmos and fern decorated the dining table and a pleasant social evening was enjoyed.

Covers were laid for Mrs. W. R. Newton, Miss Eva Quick of Los Angeles, William M. Newton and son Merle, Mrs. R. T. Lyons and daughter, Jean and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Newton and sons.

LYDIA CLASS IS ENTERTAINED BY MRS. FIFE

Mrs. J. M. Fife of 517 North Jackson street was hostess Thursday afternoon to the members of the Lydia class of the First Presbyterian church. There were about 30 ladies present. In the absence of the president, the vice president, Mrs. W. E. McCormick, presided. The house was a beautiful bower of cosmos and greenery.

Devotionals were led by Mrs. Jessie Jaskin and were followed by the usual business session. Following this a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served by the committee in charge, which included Mrs. A. H. Fuelscher, Mrs. McAllister, Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Fife.

SUNDAY SCHOOL OFFICERS AND TEACHERS BANQUET

The Sunday School officers and teachers of the Glendale Presbyterian church met Thursday night for their pre-communion conference and dinner. The business session was held at the dinner table, and later all adjourned to the main church auditorium where Dr. Boyd addressed a large and appreciative audience.

The Sunday school conference is a quarterly affair held the Thursday night preceding communion Sunday.

REBEKAH LODGE PLANS INITIATION

The Carnation Rebekah Lodge is planning for an initiation on Tuesday night at their regular meeting. All Rebekahs are urged to be present.

SAN FERNANDO I. O. O. F. TO PUT ON BANQUET.

The Fernando Valley Encampment No. 85, I. O. O. F. will put on a special banquet and social evening at Van Nuys, Monday night, October 16. There will be a program and real social time. Quite a number from the Glendale lodge are planning to attend.

PURELY PERSONAL

Mrs. M. E. Lindsay and son Robert of 1017 East Palmer avenue are leaving today by automobile for Riverside where they expect to spend the week-end with old friends. Mrs. Lindsay is a former resident of Riverside and they expect to attend the Southern California Fair there. Mrs. Lindsay is at present in the real estate business and states that her office will be open Monday morning again for business.

C. D. Lusby of the Lusby Loan and Investment Company, is in San Francisco on business.

HIGH COLUMBUS DAY PROGRAM

The Columbus Day program at Glendale High for good reasons was switched to today, the last school day of the week. It will be given at assembly which will have to be given in three installments to accommodate all the pupils of the school. Miss Jennie Freeman, head of the English literature department will have charge, the program having been arranged by Mr. Brewster, head of dramatics and Miss Cory, head of debating. It will take place at the 6th period from 2:10 to 3:10 and will last 15 to 20 minutes.

CENTRAL P. T. A. MEETING WELL ATTENDED

Committee chairmen and room mothers were announced Thursday at a very interesting and enthusiastic meeting of the Central avenue P.-T. A. held at the school, with the president, Mrs. D. F. Reichard in charge.

The meeting was opened by the salute to the flag led by Miss Perkins, which was followed by reports from the secretary and treasurer. The mother count was taken and it was found that Miss Perkins' room had the most mothers present. Last year the prize was a beautiful picture, but this year, it will be a large basket of flowers. Each room has been given a color and when they win the basket they get to tie a large bow of ribbon of their particular color on the handle and at the end of the year, the room having the most bows of their color will receive the prize.

Federation president, Mrs. E. B. Moore, spoke on the P.-T. A. and read an original verse by Miss Eva Daniels to be found elsewhere in the Press today.

A speaker from the California Veterans' Welfare League gave a 4-minute talk on propositions 1 and 3 and explained why every member should vote for these.

Miss Marie Oliver sang in her usual charming manner, "A Song of India," "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water," and a Folk song.

Following this the committee chairmen were appointed. They are historian, Mrs. Goodrich; finance, Mrs. Burris; membership, Miss Annie McIntyre; visiting, Mrs. C. M. Taylor; courtesy, Mrs. L. H. Thompson; auditor and reception, Mrs. W. L. Llewellyn; forum, Mrs. George Horne; playground, Mrs. E. E. Harwood; publicity, Mrs. J. S. Dickerson; legislation, Mrs. C. H. Crawford; emblem and magazine, Mrs. C. H. Sanders; program, Mrs. R. L. Young; education, Mrs. A. G. Bartley; philanehropy, Mrs. Reed Heustis; home economics, Mrs. H. H. Harris.

The following room mothers were chosen: Kindergarten, Mrs. W. P. Llewellyn; B1 and A1, Mrs. W. J. Reed; A1 and B2, Mrs. R. L. Phister; B2 and A2, Mrs. J. A. Legge; B3 and A3, Mrs. J. M. Blankenship; B4 and A4, Mrs. Burris; B5 and A5, Mrs. J. D. Cole; B6 and A6, Mrs. O. C. Logan.

Ladies of St. Marks to Give Big Dinner

Mrs. B. O. Holbrook, chairman of the committee in charge of the dinner and entertainment to be given next Thursday night by the members of St. Mark's Guild, announced at their regular meeting yesterday that plans were nearing completion for this affair.

Plans are also being made for the cooked food sale to be held Saturday at Gregg's hardware store, 109 North Brand. Miss M. Louise Parker is chairman of the committee in charge of this.

Yesterday's meeting was the scene of great activity, for the ladies did plenty of sewing and quilting.

All are making great plans for the future when their new rector will take up his work and look forward to a busy year.

LA CRESCENTA PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Thomas celebrated their 30th wedding anniversary with an afternoon treat for their far-away friends, and a supper for their family and relatives in the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cavanagh of Glendale sang afternoon and evening; Miss Karla Schramm, pianist of Los Angeles, and Mr. Henry Canton, tenor of Montrose, played and sang in the evening. There were 100 guests present. Dahlias and roses were the decorations.

Mr. and Mrs. Mallory have returned from a trip to San Francisco. Mr. Mallory has long been in the employ of the Standard Oil company.

Mr. and Mrs. James Conlon, of Mayfield avenue, have returned after several weeks' visit to their home-town in Indiana.

The La Crescenta Mutual Water company held its annual meeting in the school auditorium on Monday evening. The company is in a most prosperous condition, and is considering sinking another well.

The La Crescenta Woman's club held its first meeting on Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Mark Collins, the new president, presiding. Plans for the coming year were discussed. Mrs. Lawton spoke on the coming election and a number of the bills were discussed. The next meeting will be held the second Wednesday in November.

PRESBYTERIAN PRE-COMMUNION WEEK TO CLOSE

Dr. Cortland Myers to Speak This Evening, "Family Night"

A large audience is expected at the local Presbyterian church this evening to hear Dr. Cortland Myers. This will be the concluding service of "pre-communion week," and through the year has come to be known as "Family Night." This has come about because so many entire families have attended this service in the past.

Dr. Myers has often been heard in Glendale and is always given a hearty welcome. He was formerly pastor of the largest Baptist church in the world, Tremont Temple in Boston. He is now giving his time entirely to conference work and his services are in constant demand from coast to coast. The general public will be cordially welcomed at the service this evening.

The services of this week will be followed by the communion service on Sunday morning, when a large number of new members will be publicly received. The service on Sunday evening will be a special musical service and the sermon will be preached by the assistant pastor, Rev. Louis Tinning, whose sermon subject will be "Two Estimates of Life."

BRAND CENTRAL MARKET OPENS TOMORROW

The Brand Central Market, 207 North Brand, will open to morrow for business with five progressive and wide awake business people in charge of as many departments.

The grocery department, owned and operated by R. D. Estes, carry a complete line of groceries, etc., and sells at very attractive prices. Mr. Estes is building up a good business, having only been located at the Market less than two months. He is a wide awake business man and should enjoy a good business.

The class A Meat Market Wm. Schmidt and Son, proprietors, has one of the most complete and up-to-date Markets in this section, and carries A—1 meats and products. Mr. Schmidt is a recent arrival in Glendale, has bought a home here, and should have a liberal patronage. The Market has one of the finest refrigerating systems in this section, Los Angeles not excepted. Right prices, good service and A—1 products will be the aim of the Class A Market.

Ernest Cote, a live wire business man, is proprietor of the Vegetable and Fruit Market, and is giving a service that is second to none. He carries everything in fresh fruit and vegetables. Read his Saturday specials elsewhere.

The Do-nut and Light Lunch Counter is a popular feature of this new Market. Fresh doughnuts, the best it is possible to produce, says the proprietor, are made fresh every day, and light lunches are also a very attractive feature. Soft drinks are also served at the lunch counter.

Miller's Delicatessen stand bids fair to attract a big business. A nice line of delicacies, including relishes, pickles, olives, etc., is carried. Fresh peanut butter is made as you want it.

GLENDONIAN CLUB DANCE ON FRIDAY

The first of the Glendonian club's autumnal dances will be given Friday night, October 20 at the chamber of commerce auditorium.

This is the third dance given by the club and there is no question but what this affair will be equally as "peppy" and successful as the others. The Hallowe'en season will be brought out in the clever decorations and syncopation will be furnished by Jerry Parker's six-piece orchestra.

Girl Athletes Are Entertained

Members of the Girls Athletic club of Glendale high were entertained Thursday evening by Miss Olive Gulick at her home, 1237 Central avenue. Games were played and plans were made for more hikes. It was quite informal and refreshments were served by the hostess.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE:

SECTION 1. That the public interest and convenience require and it is the intention of the Council of the City of Glendale to order the following improvements to be made to-wit:

That Pacific Avenue be opened and laid out from the northerly line of Broadway to the northerly line of Tract No. 2734, as per map recorded in Book 22, Page 31 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California, and its prolongation easterly and widened at the southerly line of Broadway and at all streets intersecting with Pacific Avenue or terminating thereat between the northerly line of said Tract No. 2434, and its prolongation easterly and the easterly line of Columbus Avenue, except Patterson Avenue, South street and Clement Drive, and except those portions of Dryden street, Palm Drive and Stocker street, lying west of Pacific Avenue.

SECTION 2. That the land necessary and convenient to be taken for the improvement described in Section 1 hereof is situated in the City of Glendale, County of Los Angeles, State of California, and is more particularly described as those portions of said City lying within the following described boundary lines, to-wit:

First: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 36 of Tract No. 752 as per map recorded in Book 16, Page 34 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence southerly along the westerly line of said Lot 36 to the southwesterly corner thereof; thence easterly along the southerly lines of said Lot 36 and Lot 35 of said Tract No. 752 a distance of seventy and twenty hundredths (70.20) feet to the beginning of a curve, concave northeasterly of radius twenty (20) feet from which said point a radial line to said curve bears S. 0 deg., 21 min. W; thence northwesterly along said curve to its intersection with a curve concave northeasterly of radius two hundred ninety-two and sixty-five hundredths (292.65) feet, from which said intersection a radial line to the said curve bears N 5½ deg., 27 min., 30 sec. E; thence northwesterly along said curve to the point of beginning.

Second: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 1 of said Tract No. 752; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 1 a distance of fourteen and ninety-seven hundredths (14.97) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line of said curve bears S. 6 deg., 21 min. E; thence southwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 1; thence northerly along said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Third: Beginning at the southwesterly corner of Lot 73 of Tract No. 839, as per map recorded in Book 16, Page 78 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence easterly along the southerly line of said Lot 73 a distance of fifteen and three one-hundredths (15.03) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line of said curve bears N. 0 deg., 21 min. W; thence northwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 73, thence southerly along the said last designated line to the point of beginning.

Fourth: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 72 of said Tract No. 839; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 72 a distance of fourteen and ninety-seven hundredths (14.97) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line of said curve bears S. 6 deg., 21 min. E; thence southwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 72; thence northerly along said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Fifth: Beginning at the southwesterly corner of Lot 37 of said Tract No. 839; thence easterly along the southerly line of said Lot 37 a distance of fifteen and three hundredths (15.02) feet to the beginning of a curve, concave northeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line of said curve bears N. 0 deg., 21 min. W; thence northwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 37; thence southerly along said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Sixth: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 36 of said Tract No. 839; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 36, a distance of fourteen and ninety-seven hundredths (14.97) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line of said curve bears S. 6 deg., 21 min. E; thence southwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said lot 36; thence northerly along said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Seventh: Beginning at the southwesterly corner of Lot 1 of said Tract No. 839; thence easterly along the southerly line of said Lot 1 a distance of fifteen and three hundredths (15.03) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line of said curve bears N. 0 deg., 21 minutes W.; thence northwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 1; thence southerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Eighth: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 91 of Houston's West Glendale Tract as per map recorded in Book 12, Page 37 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 91 a distance of fourteen and ninety-five hundredths (14.95) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line of said curve bears N. 0 degrees, 20 minutes E.; thence southwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 91; thence northerly along said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Ninth: Beginning at the southwesterly corner of Lot 90 of said Houston's West Glendale Tract; thence easterly along the southerly line of said Lot 90 a distance of fifteen and five hundredths (15.05) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line of said curve bears N 0 deg., 20 min. W; thence northwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 90; thence southerly along the last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Tenth: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 55 of said Houston's West Glendale Tract; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 55 a distance of fourteen and ninety-five hundredths (14.95) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line of said curve bears S. 0 degrees, 20 minutes E; thence southwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 55; thence northerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Eleventh: Beginning at the southwesterly corner of Lot 54 of said Houston's West Glendale Tract; thence easterly along the southerly line of said Lot 54 a distance of fifteen and five one-hundredths (15.05) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line of said curve bears N. 0 degrees, 20 minutes W.; thence northwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 54; thence southerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Twelfth: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 19 of said Houston's West Glendale Tract; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 19 a distance of fourteen and ninety-five hundredths (14.95) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line of said curve bears N. 0 degrees, 20 minutes W.; thence northwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 19; thence northerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Thirteenth: Beginning at the southwesterly corner of Lot 18 of said Houston's West Glendale Tract; thence easterly along the southerly line of said Lot 18 a distance of fifteen and one-hundredths (15.01) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line of said curve bears S. 1 degree, 41 minutes W.; thence southwesterly along the said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 1; thence northwesterly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Fourteenth: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 6 of Oliver's West Glendale Tract as per map recorded in Book 9, Page 58 of said Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 6 a distance of fifteen and seven hundredths (15.07) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line of said curve bears S. 0 degrees, 10 minutes, 30 seconds W.; thence southwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 6; thence northerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Fifteenth: Beginning at the southwesterly corner of Lot 7 of said Oliver's West Glendale Tract; thence easterly along the southerly line of said Lot 7 a distance of fourteen and ninety-three hundredths (14.93) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line of said curve bears N. 0 degrees, 10 minutes, 30 seconds E.; thence northwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 7; thence southerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Sixteenth: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 16 of said Oliver's West Glendale Tract; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 16 a distance of fifteen and seven hundredths (15.07) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line of said curve bears S. 0 degrees, 10 minutes, 30 seconds W.; thence southwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 16; thence northerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Seventeenth: Beginning at the southwesterly corner of Lot 17 of said Oliver's West Glendale Tract; thence easterly along the southerly line of said Lot 17 a distance of fourteen and ninety-three hundredths (14.93) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line of said curve bears N. 0 degrees, 10 minutes, 30 seconds, E.; thence northwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 17; thence southerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Eighteenth: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 36, of said Oliver's West Glendale Tract; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot a distance of eighty and thirty-five hundredths (80.35) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southeasterly of radius eighty (80) feet from which said point a radial line of the said curve bears S. 0 degrees, 10 minutes, 30 seconds W.; thence southwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 36; thence northerly along said westerly line to the point of beginning.

Nineteenth: Beginning at the southwesterly corner of Lot 38 of said Oliver's West Glendale Tract; thence easterly along the southerly line of said Lot 38 a distance of fourteen and ninety-two hundredths (14.92) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 0 degrees, 10 minutes, 30 seconds E.; thence northwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 38; thence southerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Twentieth: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 45 of said Oliver's West Glendale Tract; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 45 a distance of fifteen and eight hundredths (15.08) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears S 0 degrees, 10 minutes, 30 seconds, W.; thence southwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 45; thence northerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Twenty-first: Beginning at the southwesterly corner of Lot 48 of said Oliver's West Glendale Tract; thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 48 a distance of fourteen and ninety-two hundredths (14.92) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to said curve bears N. 0 degrees, 10 minutes, 30 seconds E.; thence northwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 48; thence southerly along the said last designated line to the point of beginning.

Twenty-second: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 1 of Tract No. 329, as per map recorded in Book 14, Page 89 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California, thence easterly along the northerly line of said Lot 1 a distance of forty-four and forty-two hundredths (44.42) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southeasterly of radius thirty (30) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears S 1 degree, 41 minutes W.; thence southwesterly along the said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 1; thence northwesterly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Twenty-third: Beginning at the southwesterly corner of Lot 9 of said Tract No. 329; thence easterly along the southerly line of said Lot 9 a distance of twenty and twenty-seven hundredths (20.27) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northeasterly of radius twenty-five (25) feet, from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 1 degree, 41 minutes E.; thence northwesterly along the said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 9; thence southeasterly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Twenty-fourth: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 98 of Tract No. 726 as per map recorded in Book 15, Pages 186 and 187 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence easterly along the northerly line of said lot a distance of fourteen and ninety hundredths (14.90) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 0 degrees, 40 minutes E.; thence southwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 98; thence northwesterly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Twenty-fifth: Beginning at the southwesterly corner of Lot 66 of said Tract No. 726; thence northeasterly along the southerly line of said Lot 66 a distance of fifteen and ten hundredths (15.10) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 10 degrees, 40 minutes W.; thence northwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 66; thence southeasterly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Twenty-sixth: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 65 of said Tract No. 726; thence northeasterly along the northerly line of said Lot 65 a distance of fourteen and ninety hundredths (14.90) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 10 degrees, 40 minutes, E; thence southeasterly along the said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 188; thence northerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Twenty-seventh: Beginning at the southwesterly corner of Lot 34 of said Tract No. 726; thence northeasterly along the southerly line of said Lot 34 a distance of fifteen and ten hundredths (15.10) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northeasterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said curve bears N. 10 degrees, 40 minutes W.; thence northwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 34; thence southeasterly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Twenty-eighth: Beginning at the northwesterly corner of Lot 33 of said Tract No. 726; thence northeasterly along the northerly line of said Lot 33 a distance of forty-four hundredths (44.44) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southeasterly of radius twenty-five (25) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears S. 11 degrees, 35 minutes E.; thence southwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 33; thence northwesterly along the said last designated line to the point of beginning.

Twenty-ninth: Beginning at the southwesterly corner of Lot 5 of Tract No. 2685 as per map recorded in Book 27, Page 45 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence northeasterly along the southerly line of said Lot 5, a distance of thirty and seventy-six hundredths (30.76) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northeasterly of radius thirty (30) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 11 degrees, 35 minutes W.; thence northwesterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the westerly line of said Lot 5; thence southeasterly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Thirtieth: Beginning at the northeasterly corner of Lot 12 of Tract No. 2737 as per map recorded in Book 32, Page 8, of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence northwesterly along the northerly line of said Lot 12 a distance of sixteen and twenty-nine hundredths (16.29) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southwesterly of radius twenty-five (25) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears S. 13 degrees, 40 minutes, 40 seconds W.; thence southeasterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 12; thence northerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Thirty-first: Beginning at the southeasterly corner of Lot 37 of said Oliver's West Glendale Tract; thence westerly along the southerly line of said Lot 37 a distance of eighty and forty-three hundredths (80.43) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northwesterly of radius eighty (80) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 0 degrees, 10 seconds E.; thence northeasterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 37; thence southerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Thirty-second: Beginning at the southeasterly corner of Lot 238 of Tract No. 1587 as per map recorded in Book 20, Page 95 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence westerly along the southerly line of said Lot 238 a distance of fifteen and five hundredths (15.05) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 0 degrees, 03 minutes W.; thence northeasterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 238; thence southerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Thirty-third: Beginning at the northeasterly corner of Lot 236 of said Tract No. 1587; thence westerly along the northerly line of said Lot 236 to the beginning of a curve concave southwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears S. 0 degrees, 03 minutes E.; thence southeasterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 236; thence northerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Thirty-fourth: Beginning at the southeasterly corner of Lot 189 of said Tract No. 1587; thence westerly along the southerly line of said Lot 189 a distance of fifteen and five hundredths (15.05) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 0 degrees, 03 minutes W.; thence northeasterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 189; thence southerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Thirty-fifth: Beginning at the northeasterly corner of Lot 188 of said Tract No. 1587; thence westerly along the northerly line of said Lot 188, a distance of fourteen and ninety-five hundredths (14.95) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears S. 0 degrees, 03 minutes E; thence southeasterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 188; thence northerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Thirty-sixth: Beginning at the southeasterly corner of Lot 165 of said Tract No. 1587; thence westerly along the southerly line of said Lot 165 a distance of fifteen and five hundredths (15.05) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 0 degrees, 03 minutes W.; thence northeasterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 165; thence southerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Thirty-seventh: Beginning at the northeasterly corner of Lot 164 of said Tract No. 1587; thence westerly along the northerly line of said Lot 164 a distance of fourteen and ninety-five hundredths (14.95) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears S. 0 degrees, 03 minutes E.; thence southeasterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 164; thence northerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Thirty-eighth: Beginning at the southeasterly corner of Lot 141 of said Tract No. 1587; thence westerly along the southerly line of said Lot 141 a distance of fifteen and six hundredths (15.06) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 0 degrees, 03 minutes W.; thence northeasterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 140; thence southerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Thirty-ninth: Beginning at the northeasterly corner of Lot 326 of Tract No. 1744 as per map recorded in Book 21, Page 186 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence westerly along the northerly line of said Lot 326 a distance of fourteen and ninety-four hundredths (14.94) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears S. 0 degrees, 0 minutes, 20 seconds W.; thence southeasterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 326; thence northerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Fortieth: Beginning at the southeasterly corner of Lot 325 of said Tract No. 1744; thence westerly along the southerly line of said Lot 325 a distance of fifteen and six hundredths (15.06) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 0 degrees 0 minutes 20 seconds W.; thence northeasterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 325; thence southerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Forty-first: Beginning at the northeasterly corner of Lot 276 of said Tract No. 1744; thence westerly along the northerly line of said Lot 276 a distance of fourteen and ninety-four hundredths (14.94) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears S. 0 degrees 0 minutes 20 seconds E.; thence southeasterly along the said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 276; thence northerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Forty-second: Beginning at the southeasterly corner of Lot 140 of Tract No. 1448 as per map recorded in Book 18, Pages 162 and 163 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California, thence westerly along the southerly line of said Lot 140 a distance of fifteen and six hundredths (15.06) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 0 degrees 0 minutes 20 seconds W.; thence northeasterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 140; thence southerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Forty-third: Beginning at the northeasterly corner of Lot 93 of said Tract No. 1448; thence westerly along the northerly line of said Lot 93 a distance of fourteen and ninety-four hundredths (14.94) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears S. 0 degrees 0 minutes 20 seconds E.; thence southeasterly along the said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 93; thence northerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Forty-fourth: Beginning at the southeasterly corner of Lot 92 of said Tract No. 1448; thence westerly along the southerly lines of said Lot 92 a distance of fifteen and six hundredths (15.06) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 0 degrees 0 minutes 20 seconds W.; thence northeasterly along the said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 92; thence southerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Forty-fifth: Beginning at the northeasterly corner of Lot 47 of said Tract No. 1448; thence westerly along the northerly line of said Lot 47 a distance of fourteen and ninety-four hundredths (14.94) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears S. 0 degrees 0 minutes 20 seconds E.; thence southeasterly along the said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 47; thence northerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Forty-sixth: Beginning at the southeasterly corner of Lot 46 of said Tract No. 1448; thence westerly along the southerly line of said Lot 46 a distance of fifteen and six hundredths (15.06) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 0 degrees 0 minutes 20 seconds W.; thence northeasterly along the said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 46; thence southerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Forty-seventh: Beginning at the northeasterly corner of Lot 1 of said Tract No. 1448; thence westerly along the northerly line of said Lot 1 a distance of fourteen and ninety-four hundredths (14.94) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears S. 0 degrees 0 minutes 20 seconds E.; thence southeasterly along the said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 1; thence northerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Forty-eighth: Beginning at the southeasterly corner of Lot 1 of Tract No. 2434 as per map recorded in Book 23, Page 61 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence westerly along the southerly line of said Lot 1 a distance of fourteen and ninety-seven hundredths (14.97) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 0 degrees 29 minutes 40 seconds W.; thence northeasterly along the said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 1; thence southerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Forty-ninth: Beginning at the northeasterly corner of Lot 326 of Tract No. 1744 as per map recorded in Book 21, Page 186 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence westerly along the northerly line of said Lot 326 a distance of fourteen and ninety-four hundredths (14.94) feet to the beginning of a curve concave southwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears S. 0 degrees, 0 minutes, 20 seconds W.; thence southeasterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 326; thence northerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Fiftieth: Beginning at the southeasterly corner of Lot 325 of said Tract No. 1744; thence westerly along the southerly line of said Lot 325 a distance of fifteen and six hundredths (15.06) feet to the beginning of a curve concave northwesterly of radius fifteen (15) feet from which said point a radial line to the said curve bears N. 0 degrees 0 minutes 20 seconds W.; thence northeasterly along said curve to its point of tangency with the easterly line of said Lot 325; thence southerly along the said last mentioned line to the point of beginning.

Article No. 3
Card Valuation

CARD VALUATION

The next point in order of importance is card valuation; that is, the ability properly to analyze and value the trick-taking value of each card and hand that may be dealt.

In order to understand properly the measuring of card valuation, deal out four hands of thirteen cards each. Then think of the fact that certain cards always take tricks either because of their intrinsic value or because they are held along with other high cards of the same suits. The cards that always should take tricks are the four Aces; therefore an Ace is valued as worth one trick. The best players have rated a King once guarded (such as K, 7 of Hearts) as worth on the average one trick about half the time, possibly a little oftener. Therefore, the Kings, if held with at least one of the suit, are valued as worth one-half trick. For very nearly the same reason, a Queen of a suit, with at least two small cards of its suit (such as Queen, 7, 6 of Hearts) is worth a trick about once in four times. Therefore a Queen is valued as worth one-quarter trick. These values are all defensive or so-called quick trick values; that is, their value as trick takers when opponents are playing the hand. Their values in support of their own or partner's final bid, is very nearly double their quick trick values. This point will be covered in a later article.

The foregoing gives an easy working rule for quick trick valuation of single honors. When such honors are held in combination with other honors of the same suit their values are considerably increased. For example, an Ace, King of one suit is valued as worth two tricks; a King, Queen as worth one trick, and a Queen, Jack as worth one-half trick. This leads to the conclusion that a King, Queen or Jack, when held in combination with the next higher honor of the same suit, acquires the same value.

Triple honors are valued slightly differently. For example, the K, Q, J or the A, Q, J of the same suit are valued as worth two tricks. Experience has shown that such combinations will take two tricks more than half the time.

Please note that the foregoing values represent the defensive or quick trick values against opponents' bid, and are based on normal hands — that is, hands that contain suits of no more than five cards. As soon as hands contain six card suits, or longer, these quick trick or defensive values are not so dependable. They are a working rule for approximately four hands out of five.

The following table should be memorized and numberless hands should be dealt out and valued:

Approximate Quick Trick Values

A, K, Q	2½ tricks
A, K, J	2¼ tricks
A, K	2 tricks
A, Q, J	2 tricks
K, Q, J	2 tricks
A, Q, 10	1½ tricks
A, J, 10	1½ tricks
K, Q, 10	1½ tricks
A, Q, 7	1¼ tricks
Ace	1 trick
K, Q	1 trick
K, J, 10	¾ trick
K, 7	½ trick
Q, J, 7	½ trick
Q, 7, 3	¼ trick
J, 7, 4, 3	No trick

Defensive or quick trick valuation of example hands:

Hearts — A, K, 7, 4, 3	2 tricks
Clubs — 10, 7, 6	0 trick
Diamonds — Q, 4, 3	¼ trick
Spades — K, Q	1 trick

Value of hand, 3¼ quick tricks.

Hearts — K, J, 10	¾ trick
Clubs — A, 4, 3	1 trick
Diamonds — J, 4, 3, 2	0 trick
Spades — K, 7, 6	½ trick

Value of hand, 2¼ quick tricks.

Hearts — Q, J, 4	½ trick
Clubs — K, Q, J, 4	2 tricks
Diamonds — A, K, Q, 4	2½ tricks
Spades — 10, 8	0 trick

Valuation of hand, 5 quick tricks.

Hearts — A, Q, 7, 4, 2	1¼ tricks
Clubs — K, 4, 2	½ trick
Diamonds — J, 10, 4, 2	0 trick
Spades — Q	0 trick

Valuation of hand, 1¾ quick tricks.

The foregoing rules of card valuation are the basic rules of Auction and must be thoroughly mastered by the beginner before even attempting any further progress in the game. If the beginner understands how to value cards and hands, he has built the foundation to become a good player, but it is impossible otherwise. There are thousands of poor players today who can improve their game fifty per cent by a study of card and hand valuation. Without a proper foundation, no one can succeed and card valuation is the foundation of good Auction.

THE REFERENDUM

(EDITOR'S NOTE:—This column will be devoted to signed propaganda relating to the various measures on the state ballot in November and other matter of like nature. Responsibility for statements herein lies with the authors whose names are signed. The space is limited.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 13.—T. M. Wright, author of the Wright act, gave out the following statement today:

"The citizens of California face squarely a test of their loyalty to the nation and its constitution when they vote upon the Wright act this fall. This act will appear on the ballot as No. 2, the prohibition enforcement act. The issue it presents is simply this: Shall we join with the rest of the states and congress in enforcing the constitution of the United States, or shall we refuse to enforce it? If we decide to enforce it, it does not preclude honest effort to amend the constitution or the present federal laws. If we refuse to enforce it, then present bootlegging conditions will continue, the outcasts from other states will come here, and our 'wide open' conditions will become infinitely worse.

"The Wright act simply clothes our present officials with authority to aid in stamping out bootlegging. It does not increase the number of our officials, nor add one dollar of additional burden to the taxpayer. We have these officials now, but their hands are tied. The fines collected will go into our local treasuries under the Wright act instead of enriching Uncle Sam.

"Every bootlegger in California is against the law. They are entirely satisfied with the handful of federal prohibition officers and thousands of cases clogging the two courts. They much prefer these conditions than to have every court and official in California on their necks.

"To vote against the Wright act will not bring wine and beer to California. Congress alone is the body through whom this can be legalized. To vote against the Wright act will give an increase in the 'jackass brandy' traffic, though. Does California want this? I should hope not."

The text of the Wright act follows:

Section 1. California hereby recognizes the requirements of the Eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States for its concurrent enforcement by the congress and the several states. To that end, the penal provisions of the Volstead act are hereby adopted as the law of this state, and the courts of this state are hereby vested with the jurisdiction, and the duty is hereby imposed upon all prosecuting attorneys, sheriffs, grand juries, magistrates and peace officers in the state, to enforce the same.

Sec. 2. All acts or omissions prohibited or declared unlawful by the Eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States or by the Volstead act are hereby prohibited and declared unlawful and violations thereof are subject to the penalties provided in the Volstead act.

Sec. 3. California hereby recognizes that its power to enforce the Eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States should at all times be exercised in full concurrence with the exercise of the like power of congress; and to that end, whenever congress shall amend or repeal the Volstead act, or enact any other law to enforce the Eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States, then the provisions of sections one and two of this act shall apply thereto.

Sec. 4. Nothing in this act shall be construed as limiting the power of any city or county, to prohibit the manufacture, sale, transportation or possession of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes; and all fines and forfeitures collected under any ordinance now or hereafter enacted in the exercise of such power shall be paid into the treasury of the city or county, or city and county, whose ordinance is violated.

Sec. 5. The phrase "Volstead act" as used herein is defined as title two of the act of congress enacted October 28, 1919; such title two being enacted under the authority of the Eighteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States and providing for the enforcement thereof.

Sec. 6. Should any section or any portion of any section of this act be found unconstitutional, the remainder shall continue in full force and effect, it being expressly declared that such is the intention.

San Francisco—The California Development Association, after a careful and thorough study, has announced its unqualified opposition to the proposed Water Power Act. In a resolution setting forth its opposition, the association urges its membership and affiliated organizations throughout the State to take a similar stand.

The proposed measure would materially block the future development and prosperity of California, according to the resolution. Believing that a frak statement of this is of vital importance to the interests of the people as a whole, the association says that it has been prompted to step into the issue, notwithstanding the fact that a policy of timidity and selfishness might have been easier to pursue.

"The California Development Association feels most profoundly its responsibility and accountability to the citizenship and general welfare of the people of the great State of California," said Charles W. Helser, president of the California Development Association.

"The contemplated act provides for such sweeping changes in the control and development of water and power service in the State as to unquestionably affect in a determined way, the future destiny of the State as basically controlled by these two major elements in its assets of present and future prosperity.

The association has met the situation squarely. It has passed a resolution setting forth its opposition to the measure. It intends to use the strength of its entire organization to defeat the measure.

BRILLIANT DANCE TO MARK LA MADRID EFFORT FOR CHARITY

One of the most brilliant social affairs of the season will be the benefit dance for the California Home for Crippled Children, to be given tonight at the Chamber of Commerce auditorium, under the auspices of La Madrid Club.

Four film stars of national fame will act as patrons and patronesses. Dorothy Manners, whose latest release is with "Doug" Fairbanks in "Robin Hood"; Andree Tourneur, the blonde and dimpled beauty, who is best known as late leading lady with Bert Lytell; Walter Emerson, familiar to screen enthusiasts in a number of successful productions, and George Tiges, the clever character man of uncommon virility.

La Madrid Club is composed of prominent members of Glendale high school who have interested themselves in worthy enterprises on more than one occasion. The popularity of this organization and the scale on which they do things is promise of an extraordinary successful ball on Friday night.

Preparations covering several weeks' time have been under way for this big affair and several hundred guests are expected. Everyone is cordially invited.

Punch for the occasion has been donated by Henry Brown Company and dance prizes by Hatz Women's Shop, Robinson's Men's Shop, Dewey's, Glenn Inn, Walcotts and the Ostrom Studio.

Tickets for the dance are on sale at Roberts and Echols, Shuck Music Company, Glendale Music company, Glendale Candy Shop and Fashion Center.

CERRITOS P.-T. A. OFFICERS MEET

Members of the executive board of the Cerritos P.-T. A. held a meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. O. W. Wesselman, 1721 Gardena avenue. All the chairmen were present with one exception, also the principal of the school, Mrs. Annie Curtis, and her corps of teachers.

The resignation of the secretary, Mrs. Irene McReynolds, was read and accepted and Mrs. H. F. Crofts of 1753 Gardena, was elected to fill the vacancy.

Mrs. McReynolds, playground chairman, was instructed to purchase two maypoles for the playground.

Announcement was made of the meeting of the district conference to be held at South Pasadena high school, October 26, from 10 to 2 p. m.

During the social hour which followed the business session, refreshments were served.

Northwest to Hold School House Warming

The Northwest section of the city is giving a house warming for the new Grand View school tonight. The program, which will consist of musical numbers and talks from prominent men of the city, will begin at 8 o'clock. All residents of this section of the city are invited.

The sweet young thing was being rowed round the harbor by a stolid fisherman. She was full of questions.

"What are these great ugly boats?" she asked.

"Then's men-o'-war," her companion answered.

"How wonderful!" she chortled. "And what are those fussylittle things near them?"

"Tugs, miss."

"Oh, yes, of course! I've often heard of tugs-of-war."

NOTICE OF AWARD OF CONTRACT

Pursuant to Statute and to Resolution of Award of the Council of the City of Glendale, California, adopted the 5th day of October, 1922, directing this notice, notice is hereby given that the said Council, in open session, on the 28th day of September, 1922, opened, examined and publicly declared all sealed proposals offered for the following improvement, towit:

The improvement of

Portions of Doran Street, Chester Street, Concord Street, Commercial Street and San Fernando Road and certain streets and alleys intersecting therewith in the City of Glendale.

as described in Resolution of Intention No. 1625, passed by said Council on the 3d day of August, 1922, to which said Resolution reference is hereby made for a description of said work, and of the district to be assessed therefor.

The Council of the City of Glendale determines that serial bonds shall be issued to represent assessments of twenty-five ($25.00) dollars or over for the costs of said work or improvement; said serial bonds shall extend over a period ending nine (9) years from and after the second day of January next succeeding the date of said bonds, and an even annual proportion of the principal sum thereof shall be payable by coupon on the second day of January every year after their date until the whole is paid; and the interest shall be payable semi-annually by coupon on the second days of January and July, respectively, of each year at the rate of seven per cent per annum on all sums unpaid until the whole of said principal and interest is paid.

Said bonds shall be issued in accordance with the provisions of an Act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled "An Act to provide a system of street improvement bonds to represent certain assessments for the cost of street work and improvements within municipalities and also for the payment of such bonds," approved February 27, 1893, and of all Acts supplementary thereto and amendatory thereof.

And thereafter, to-wit: On the 5th day of October, 1922, awarded the contract for said work to the lowest regular responsible bidder, towit: W. J. Curren, at the prices specified for said improvement in his proposal, on file for said improvement, to-wit:

Grading, per linear foot	$ .60
Gutter, per square foot	.21
Paving, per square foot	.12
Curb, (Class "B"), per linear foot	.50
Sidewalk, per square foot	.17

And that said award has been approved by the Mayor of the said City of Glendale.

Clerk's office, City of Glendale, California, 7th day of October, 1922.

ORDINANCE NO. 672

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE CALLING A SPECIAL ELECTION TO BE HELD ON THE 27TH DAY OF OCTOBER, 1922, IN THAT CERTAIN TERRITORY CONTAINED WITHIN THE BOUNDARIES OF PROPOSED MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT NO. 7, OF SAID CITY; PROVIDING FOR SUBMITTING TO THE QUALIFIED ELECTORS OF SAID DISTRICT THE PROPOSITION OF INCURRING A DEBT BY ISSUANCE OF BONDS OF SUCH DISTRICT FOR THE PURPOSE OF ACQUIRING AND CONSTRUCTING OR ACQUIRING OR CONSTRUCTING WORKS FOR DISTRIBUTING AND SUPPLYING WATER TO THE INHABITANTS OF SUCH DISTRICT INCLUDING THE ACQUISITION OF LANDS, WATERS, WATER RIGHTS, EASEMENTS, RIGHTS OF WAY, STRUCTURES, PIPES, PIPE LINES, APPARATUS AND ALL OTHER PROPERTY AND THE CONSTRUCTING OF MAINS, CONDUITS, AND OTHER WORKS NECESSARY FOR SUCH PURPOSE; PROVIDING FOR THE ISSUANCE AND SALE OF SUCH BONDS FOR SUCH PURPOSES AND FOR THE LEVYING OF A TAX FOR PAYMENT OF SUCH BONDS; AND ESTABLISHING ELECTION PRECINCTS AND POLLING PLACES IN SAID TERRITORY AND APPOINTING THE OFFICERS OF ELECTION FOR SAID SPECIAL ELECTION.

WHEREAS, a petition was filed in the office of the City Clerk of the City of Glendale on the 28th day of August, 1922, requesting that proceedings be taken in pursuance of an Act of the Legislature of the State of California, entitled, "An Act to provide for the formation of districts within municipalities, for the acquisition or construction of public improvements, works and public utilities for the issuance, sale and payment of bonds of such district to meet the cost of such improvements and for the acquisition or construction of such improvements," approved April 20th, 1915, and amendments thereof for the purpose hereinafter stated; and,

WHEREAS, it appears and is hereby found that said petition is signed by not less than ten (10) per cent of the qualified electors residing in the territory which is proposed to be formed into the said Municipal Improvement District; and,

WHEREAS, in pursuance of said petition and of the Act of April 20th, 1915, the Council of the City of Glendale on the 14th day of September, 1922, passed an Ordinance designated as Ordinance No. 659 of said City, containing the matters prescribed by said Act, and declaring the intention of the City Council of said City to call a special election in that part of the City of Glendale contained within the boundaries of said proposed Municipal Improvement District, to be known as "Municipal Improvement District No. 7 of the City of Glendale," for the purpose of submitting to the qualified voters of said district the proposition of authorizing the issuance and sale of bonds of such district, in the manner provided for in said Act, to meet the cost of said proposed improvement, and said Ordinance was thereafter duly published as provided by law; and,

WHEREAS, no protests had been filed with the said City Clerk on the 28th day of September, 1922, which last named day was the time set in and by said Ordinance No. 659 for the hearing of protests; and,

WHEREAS, thereupon the Council of the City of Glendale acquired and now has jurisdiction to proceed further in accordance with the provision of said Act; now, therefore,

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF GLENDALE:

SECTION 1. That a special election be, and the same is hereby called to be held on the 27th day of October, 1922, within proposed Municipal Improvement District No. 7, of the City of Glendale, the exterior boundaries of which district are contained in said Ordinance of Intention and hereafter described for the purpose of submitting to the qualified electors in said district the proposition of incurring a debt for the issuance of bonds of such district for the purposes set forth in said Ordinance of Intention and hereinafter stated; the exterior boundaries of said district being particularly described as follows, to-wit:

Beginning at the most southerly corner of Lot 78 of Watt's Subdivision as the same is recorded in Book 5, pages 200-1 of Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, California, said point being the intersection of the easterly boundary line of the City of Glendale and the northeasterly line of Wilson Avenue, thence northwesterly along the northeasterly line of Wilson Avenue to the westerly line of Lot 79 of said Watt's Subdivision; thence northerly along the westerly line of said Lot 79 to the southerly line of Sycamore Canyon Road; thence in a straight line across Sycamore Canyon Road to the most southerly corner of Lot 13, of Hodgkin's Subdivision as the same is recorded in Book 5, page 576, of Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence westerly along the northerly line of said Sycamore Canyon Road 999.24 feet; thence N. 12 degrees, 55 minutes West 79.86 feet; thence N. 0 degrees, 58 minutes East 583.78 feet; thence N. 0 degrees 22 minutes East 1107.48 feet to the southerly line of Lot 86, of Watt's Subdivision as the same is recorded in Book 5 pages 328-9 of Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, California; thence southwesterly along the southerly line of said Lot 86 to the easterly line of Verdugo Road; thence in a straight line across Verdugo Road to a point in the Westerly line of Verdugo Road 76.70 feet north of the northerly line of Monterey Road; thence northerly along the westerly line of Verdugo Road to the westerly prolongation of the northerly line of said Lot 86; thence easterly along said westerly prolongation and along the northerly line of said Lot 86, and the northerly line of Lot 14, of Hodgkin's Subdivision as the same is recorded in Book 5, page 576, of Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, California, to the easterly line of said Lot 14; thence southerly along the east line of said Lot 14 to the most northerly corner of Lot 15 of said Hodgkin's Subdivision; thence southerly along the easterly line of said Lot 15 to the northerly line of Sycamore Canyon Road; thence in a direct line to the northeast corner of Lot 10, of said Hodgkin's Subdivision; thence southerly along the easterly line of said Lot 10 to the southeast corner thereof; thence easterly along the southerly lines of Lots 9, 17 and 18 of said Hodgkin's Subdivision of the most southerly corner of Lot 21, of said Hodgkin's Subdivision; thence easterly along the southerly line of said Lot 21 to the most easterly corner thereof; thence easterly following the various courses of the northerly line of Lot 89, of Map 2, of Watt's Subdivision as per map recorded in Book 5, pages 328-9 of Miscellaneous Records of Los Angeles County, California, to its intersection with the westerly boundary line of the City of Pasadena; thence in a general southerly direction following the various courses of the westerly boundary line of Pasadena to the most northerly corner of Tract 2761, as per map recorded in Book 31, pages 28-29, Maps, Records of said County; thence southwesterly along the northwesterly line of said Tract 2761, to its intersection with the northerly boundary line of the City of Eagle Rock; thence in a general westerly direction following the various courses of the northerly boundary line of the City of Eagle Rock to the easterly boundary line of the City of Glendale; thence southerly along the easterly boundary line of the City of Glendale to the point of beginning.

SECTION 2. The objects and purposes for which said proposed indebtedness is to be incurred are the acquiring and constructing or acquiring or constructing works for distributing and supplying water to the inhabitants of such district, including the acquisition of lands, waters, water rights, easements, rights of way, structures, pipes, pipe lines, apparatus and all other property, and the constructing of mains, conduits and other works necessary for such purpose.

SECTION 3. That the estimated cost of said proposed improvement is $23,000; that the amount of the principal of the indebtedness proposed to be incurred is the sum of $23,000.00, and the rate of interest to be paid on said indebtedness shall be six (6) per cent per annum payable semi-annually.

SECTION 4. The polls of said election shall be opened at 8 o'clock a. m. of the day of the election and shall be kept open until 7 o'clock p. m., when the polls shall be closed except as provided by Section 116 of the Political Code of the State of California.

SECTION 5. That there shall be printed on the ballots to be used at said special election in addition to the other matters required by law the following proposition to be voted upon, to-wit:

"Shall that certain proposed municipal improvement district known as Municipal Improvement District No. 7 of the City of Glendale incur a bonded debt of $23,000.00 for the purpose of acquiring and constructing or acquiring or constructing works for distributing and supplying water to the inhabitants of such district including the acquisition of lands, waters, water rights, easements, rights of way, structures, pipes, pipe lines, apparatus and all other property, and the constructing of mains, conduits and other works necessary for such purpose."

That opposite the above proposition to be voted on, and to the right thereof, the words, "Yes" and "No" shall be printed on separate lines with voting squares thereafter, and electors shall vote on said proposition by stamping a cross (X) in the voting square after the answer they desire to give.

SECTION 6. For the purpose of holding and conducting said special election, said district as above described shall constitute one election precinct denominated as Special Election Precinct No. 1, and the following polling place in said precinct is hereby designated and the following named election officers thereof are hereby designated, to-wit:

Special Election Precinct No. 1: All of said Municipal Improvement District No. 7.

SECTION 7. That in all particulars not recited in this Ordinance such election shall be held and conducted as provided by law for holding general municipal elections in said City of Glendale.

SECTION 8. The City Clerk shall certify to the passage of this Ordinance by the Council of said City and shall, prior to the date hereby fixed for such election, cause the same to be published five times and once a week, for two weeks in the Glendale Daily Press, the official newspaper of said City of Glendale and a daily newspaper, printed, published and circulated in said City.

Passed by the Council of the City of Glendale this 5th day of October, 1922.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK—

BY E. R. WAITE, SECRETARY, SHAWNEE, OKLAHOMA BOARD OF COMMERCE.

THAT many cities overlook the importance of the automobile tourist trade.

THAT they forget to give the glad hand to the stranger and therefore fail to sell him anything.

THAT it is time many cities should realize the meaning of tourist trade.

THAT in some sections it has become an organized industry.

THAT many communities are engaged in a competitive way to lure the tourists to their city.

THAT large cities as well as small towns are keen to get this business.

THAT in many sections miles of paved highways have been built to catch this trade.

THAT having invested in these roads they are making them pay.

THAT it does not pay to neglect motor trade.

THAT good roads and good tourists camps do the most to bring the crowds to your section.

THAT where the motorists go money is spent.

THAT many of them are looking for new locations for business and for homes.

THAT if your section looks good to them MANY WILL STAY.

Watch the Man With the Advertising Idea

—he may be the coming brains of your business

Look over the young executives who direct the retail and the manufacturing businesses of New York.

A surprisingly large percentage of them have reached their goals by advocating advertising, by directing the advertising and by making the advertising work.

If yours is a business which doesn't advertise, don't close your ears to the story of your young men. Help them to think it out—listen to their plans and their hopes. Add the counsel of years of experience to the minds of the men who are planning the future of your business.

Did you ever expect that iron could be advertised profitably? Few advertising men did. Did you ever expect to eat trade-marked grape-fruit? It is an accomplished fact at thousands of breakfasts this morning. Did you ever think the dairymen could profitably use the forces of publicity, or that a barbershop could grow to twenty-five, largely by the power of the written word and an idea of service?

The coming executives realize that a business exists, in the last analysis, in the minds of its customers, rather than in four walls and a roof, and, perhaps, that is why they are coming executives.

(Published by The Glendale Daily Press in cooperation with the American Association of Advertising Agencies)

OBSERVATIONS

By AN OLD-TIMER

I wonder why it is necessary, two or three times a year, for police heads to announce with great fierceness that beginning on a certain date, the motor headlight law will be strictly enforced. Why isn't it enforced all the time? Are laws made to be enforced only when the head of the police force or the sheriff of a county, so wills. If laws were enforced all the time instead of spasmodically, as seems peculiarly the case with most auto laws, perhaps there would not be so much evasion. Thousands of lives would have been saved if the laws against speeding, glaring headlights, cutting corners and other crimes, had been enforced from the very first by prompt arrest of every offender and penalties heavy enough to prevent a second offense inflicted by police judges. But "pull" brought light fines or suspended sentences in numerous cases. It is the sworn duty of every police officer to do his best to enforce every law every day in the year, by arresting offenders, and it is the sworn duty of every judge to try every case on its merits and render judgment that will caution against a reptition of the offense.

As I seem to be in a critical mood just now, I'll just air a few more grievances. I'm wondering why, when a street is newly paved better "joinups" to the roadways of cross streets cannot be made. In many cases a deep gutter is left and every car crossing it gets a disagreeable bump. A notable example of this is at Colorado and Brand, west side of latter street. Another very bad spot of this kind is at Los Feliz and Brand, west side. While in this fault-finding frame of mind I'm just going to mention what I consider a ridiculous framing of so many legal papers. Where a sum of money is mentioned it is customary to write out the amount in letters and also in figures, the latter in parentheses. In many legal papers it appears thus: "Five hundred and seventy ($570) dollars." This reads, if reduced to words only: "Five hundred and seventy (five hundred and seventy dollars) dollars." Why not write it correctly, thus: "Five hundred and seventy (570) dollars," or thus: "Five hundred and seventy dollars ($570)." Either is correct English, while the common form is both incorrect and silly. There, I have got that off of my chest, and I feel better.

Eighteen years of experience as editor of a country weekly brings many strange experiences and acquaints one with stories from real life that are indeed stranger than fiction. Such was my experience while in charge, for nearly two decades, of a county seat weekly in Illinois. The city I lived in was near the Wabash river, famed in history as the scene of many fierce battles in the Indian warfare of a century and more ago. It must have been a surpassingly beautiful stream then, carrying a mighty volume of water all the year, its banks set thick with mighty forest trees, verdure crowned in spring and summer, and glowing with marvelously delicate tints in many shades in the fall, after the frost had laid its transforming touch upon them. Then the forests extended, unbroken, for countless miles in every direction, the thick beds of leaves and the dense undergrowth holding the rains until they filtered through, thus keeping the streams full constantly. In the eastern part of the little city which I called home for more than 30 years, was a bridge about 2½ feet wide over a mere depression in one of the streets. A man who had lived in that vicinity since long before the Civil war, said that when he came there a stream several feet wide and 8 feet deep most of the time, with bank 15 feet high, was flowing right where that little bridge then stood. And this was one of the streams, a dry run in my times, that fed the Wabash and kept it flowing a mighty river all the year. But I was going to relate one of the strange incidents that came under my observation as a newspaper publisher in the little city. Others will be given in subsequent issues of the paper. One day a freight train on the Cairo division of the Big Four, which runs through Marshall, the city where I lived and worked, was bowling along at a fast clip. In it were two cars loaded with heavy iron culvert tile, measuring in diameter from 6 inches to 6 feet. The sections were of various length. A standard on one of the cars worked loose and as it fell, the pipe rolled off. One section struck the ground close to the tracks, then upended just in time to catch and lift the floor of the car, a flat, which was thrown from off the trucks, ditching all of the cars behind it. Luckily no one was hurt in this strange accident, though the property loss was heavy, so many cars being ditched and the track badly torn up. But think of it! One chance in a million that the falling section of pipe would land just right to lift the car off its trucks.

It is to be hoped that hereafter, when street names are painted on the curbs that both sides will be labeled. As it now is, when streets that intersect but do not cross main boulevards, such as Colorado, Brand, Central and San Fernando road have the name on one side only, motorists who are strangers to the city and who are going, say north on Central, cannot see the street names until they get past. When they are going south, of course there is no such difficulty. I notice that in Eagle Rock, street intersections and all curbs, two at intersections and four at crossings, are labeled. And another thing. Why not have the names right, everywhere? We have no Elk street, Acacia street, or Maple avenue in Glendale. It ought to be just as easy to get the names right as wrong. And, rather queerly, we have but one "boulevard" in Glendale. We have streets, avenues, ways, roads, drives and the like, but such a thing as a boulevard in street nomenclature is unknown except as applied to Brand. Many think it should be Colorado boulevard, as in Eagle Rock, though it is street in Pasadena, and San Fernando boulevard as in Burbank, though it is road in Los Angeles.

It seems rather queer that the very center of Glendale should be the last to be built up. Look at the stretch between Maryland and Isabel. Besides the sanitarium there was not a building of any size on the north side of Broadway in this territory, and not so very many on the south side. But that is being rapidly changed and five years hence we may see a solid wall of business buildings on both sides. In Eagle Rock the same condition prevails, only to a much greater extent than in Glendale.

There has been in the past, and is yet to some extent, objection voiced and written to the consolidation of business firms and corporations dealing in the same commodities or furnishing the same kind of public service. Thus, for instance, railroad and steamship combinations were bitterly fought on the ground that such centralization would result in the raising of rates and in insolent disregard of public rights. But the Interstate Commerce Commission and the various state commissions of a similar nature, prevented this to a large extent, and the result was a steady lowering of rates, as well as vastly greater public convenience. For instance, as recounted in one of George Cary Eggleston's instructive works of fiction, at the time of the Civil war and for a few years after, a person wishing to go from Cairo, Ill., to New York city had to travel on five different railway systems, changing cars four times and meeting with delay at each change. Now one can travel from coast to coast in the same palatial car if he so wishes, and the fare is not as high as it was then. And one can travel from Chicago to San Francisco via Los Angeles for the same fare as he pays if he goes direct by the nearest route, and vice versa as to travel from Chicago to Los Angeles. Merchandise has been greatly reduced in price by numerous stores combining their buying power and selling expense, but here it is competition that prevents a rise in price. An example of expensive competition is afforded right here in Glendale. Four adjoining houses on one street are served by four different milk companies, and in one block each of five companies delivers one pint each to five residences. This will all be remedied some day.

THE KNIGHT OF THE BROKEN HEART

When she gets this note I'll be far away.
It's hard to go but harder still to say
And know she does not love me any more.
Oh, when Columbus left his native shore
For the United States no wonder he Looked back across the dismal waste of sea
And said: "Farewell, my native land, good night!"
I know just how he felt and as I write
This farewell letter the hot tears just sizz,
Because my heart is lonesome just like his.

Today I went around and said good-by
To all the places where we played hi-spy;
To the dead log where we would sit and eat
Our sandwiches and rest our weary feet;
Then to the creek where I swam for her hat,
And where Bill Pearson drowned her best cat.
Sweet memories came to me all alone
Just like you'd spilt a bottle of cologne,
And great sobs shook my mournful breast when I
Said to them all: "Good-by, Old Friends, Good-by!"

The plains for me where I can go and kill
Wild Indians by scores and get my fill
Of bloody deeds and that way I'll forget
My early life. I'll be a hero yet
The papers will be full of me, you know,
And after while I'll start a wild-west show
And make her town and she will go of course,
And see me riding on my bucking horse.
And holding up the stage, and she will see
What might have been if she'd been true to me!

Surprises in 1922 B. B. Season

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Oct. 13.—Cincinnati and Detroit were the two big surprises of the 1922 baseball season. None of the dopesters figured them to be in the money.

The Reds and the Tigers not only finished well up in the race, but with a little more of the breaks they might have won the pennants.

Cincinnati got away to a very bad start and doubtless was handicapped by the sore arm which kept Donohue out of the box for a long time.

Detroit's hardest blow was the injury to Johnson, Pacific Coast pitcher, who was expected to be a big winner with the club.

* * * * * * *

Pat Moran's work in Philadelphia and with the 1919 Reds earned for him the title of "Miracle Man" and he is still living up to it.

He has entirely remodeled the Reds and he is now in possession of a young team that ought to be one of the chief contenders for the 1923 pennant.

* * * * * * *

The trade by which the Reds got rid of Heine Groh provided the means of assembling a new team that pushed up and grabbed second money in the last week's of the race.

For Groh, an aging infielder who was one of the season's best bets with the Giants, the Reds got George Burns, a great outfielder, and enough money to buy Pinelli, one of the best third basemen in the big leagues, Caveney, Keck, Couch and Harper, and had about $30,000 left over.

That is what might be called A deal.

* * * * * * *

If there is any truth in the report that the Red Sox traded Derrill Pratt and "Rip" Collins to the Detroit Tigers, Cobb will have a greatly improved ball club for the next pennant race. Pratt is a good second baseman and the Tigers need one, while "Rip" Collins, if he would settle down to serious work, ought to be a big winning pitcher.

* * * * * * *

In looking for surprises in the past season, the Philadelphia clubs must not be overlooked.

Both the Athletics and the Phillies missed the cellar for the first time in several years. Both Boston clubs crowded them out and they look just as natural in the grave.

* * * * * * *

St. Louis was a disappointment in the National league race. The Cards were doped last winter to furnish the biggest opposition for the Giants, but they broke in the late season and did well to finish in a tie for third place.

* * * * * * *

Washington failed to live up to pre-season expectations largely on account of the slump that Roger Peckinpaugh fell into. Peck left the Yanks with the ambition of becoming the manager of the Senators and he didn't seem to be much interested in his work when he failed to land the job.

* * * * * * *

Bill McKechnie's work in getting the discordant elements of the Pittsburg Pirates straightened out made him one of the big figures of the season. If he had been at the head of the club from the start of the season, the Pirates might have won the pennant. They appeared to be the best team in the National league on their last Eastern trip.

* * * * * * *

New York is a very poor place to judge ball clubs, however. Every team tries its very best to beat the champions and every player does his utmost to play spectacularly in New York, where the fans are very generous. Some critics figure that the visiting clubs play about twenty per cent better than normal at the Polo grounds.

OHIO UNIVERSITY TO DEDICATE STADIUM

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 13—Ohio State University's million dollar athletic stadium will receive its baptism of football on Saturday, Oct. 21.

Dedication ceremonies for the massive horseshoe structure will be climaxed by the annual Ohio-Michigan gridiron classic. Sixty-four thousand football fans—the largest number ever gathered for a game in Ohio—will sit in the giant stands as Eloise Frome, the "Stadium Girl" and her court let the dedication procession onto the field.

The athletic monument, rushed to completion in less than a year, is the largest field west of the Yale Bowl.

Standing in the heart of the University district on the banks of the Olentangy river, Ohio Stadium resembles some great Roman amphitheatre. Two towers rising above the walls on either side of the main entrance and the graceful sweep of its horseshoe curve lends the structure monumental grandeur.

Unlike the Harvard Stadium, the Ohio field has two decks, the upper deck affording shelter to more than half the sections of the lower deck. Its seating capacity, the engineers claim, can be "stretched" to 73,000 persons. It seats 66,000 comfortably.

The entire city of Columbus, hundreds of whose citizens contributed to the $1,500,000 fund to build the stadium were to join in the ceremonies attending its dedication.

Governors Davis, of Ohio, and Groesbeck, of Michigan, are expected to watch the game from boxes elaborately draped in the colors of their respective state schools.

Old Ohio Field, scene of the University's football battles of the past, its stands torn down, will serve as parking place for the hundreds of automobiles bringing fans to the game.

The new structure, according to Ohio university expansion plans, is to form the hub of a ninety-two acre recreation tract. The stadium itself comprises gymnasiums, showers dressing rooms, offices, and physical culture lecture rooms. All these utilize the space below the tiers of bleacher seats.

THRILLS IN NEW TOM MIX FILM

This is the last day of the showing of the Tom Mix picture, "Chasing the Moon," which has been drawing big crowds to the Glendale theatre for the last few days. This picture is fine entertainment, not only characteristic of Mix in his noted feats of daring, but supplying as well many hearty laughs. Its humor is abundant and irresistible. He uses every speed vehicle except a flying machine; and he certainly shows some speed.

Eva Novak makes a pretty sweetheart and in the matter of speed keeps only a few paces behind Mix. When Mix pauses for breath in Spain she catches up with him, and then Mix slows down in order to keep her with him.

STANDING ON HER UPPER TEETH.

USE SULPHUR TO HEAL YOUR SKIN

Broken Out Skin and Itching Eczema Helped Over Night

For unsightly skin eruptions, rash or blotches on face, neck, arms or body, you do not have to wait for relief from torture or embarrassment, declares a noted skin specialist. Apply a little Mentho-Sulphur and improvement shows next day.

Because of its germ destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of this sulphur preparation. The moment you apply it healing begins. Only those who have had unsightly skin troubles can know the delight this Mentho-Sulphur brings. Even fiery, itching eczema is dried right up.

FASHION SECTION
FRIDAY
OCTOBER 13, 1922

Fashion Section

ON the wings of imagination [illegible] is carried away by Dame Fashion's fall modes to t[illegible]ds of shahs, princes and peasants and places whe[illegible]est in Fall offerings, and ate. Subtle charm lurks in tone [illegible]fabric.

A season rich in coloring an[illegible]uming is forecast, with an unusual opportunity for expre[illegible]ividuality not only in the formal evening gown, but i[illegible]noon and street frock as well.

By degrees of inches the shor[illegible]en dropped until now the vogue is for extreme[illegible] o[illegible]h are considered quite the correct thing. T[illegible] cou[illegible]lies less to the suits, but fashion decrees that dresses shall hold sway very largely for street wear.

Skirts are not only very much longer, but they are very much fuller, with draped effects in the most unexpected places.

Sleeves will be one of the most distinctive and distinguishing factors of the fall and winter gowns and coats, though the Oriental sleeve takes first place. They are all original and interesting.

Youthful lines are maintained in the latest creations and the beautiful soft new fabrics lend themselves beautifully to the graceful new silhouette which is long and slender.

As for hats, they are varied, although the chapeau with the large brim seems to be a general favorite. A huge flat bow on many is the mark of distinction.

Glendale merchants carry the latest in fall offerings, and their stock is up-to-the-minute in every respect. The prices are also a very attractive feature, which should result in bringing to Glendale merchants a big share of the fall business of this section. The merchants whose advertising appears within the covers of this Fashion Section are offering all the latest things in Fall Wearing Apparel, Footwear, etc., and will appreciate the opportunity to show their lines.

DAMAGED

AUTUMN SPORT TOGS

RANK HIGH IN IMPORTANCE

Fashion thought a good deal of the sports wear enthusiast, if Autumn Sport Togs are anything to judge by. Their delightful swankiness is exceedingly in evidence among the new apparel stocks. Gay sweaters, plaid skirts and trim breeches for hiking, golf and tennis. For the bridle path trig riding habits of Tweed and Oxford cloth. For general sports wear there's nothing smarter than soft, woolly camel's-hair and blanket-cloth coats. At Boadway's there are all varieties and styles of Sport togs for the sportswoman and the woman who likes to wear Sport clothes.

EVENING GOWNS

HAVE AN HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

With the formal season just opening, interest centers on the new Evening Gowns. Some have all the grace of ancient Greece in their lines and drapery, relying on their luscious materials, metal cloth, chiffon velvet and soft satin for their trimmings.

AFTERNOON FROCKS

FOR IMMEDIATE WEAR

With numerous bridges, club meetings and matinees all scheduled to take up one's afternoons, the question of having a new suitable frock comes under the head of immediate business. The Afternoon Frocks in our apparel sections are fascinating colorful affairs of silk crepe broches and cloth. It's unusual to find such modish dresses so very modestly priced as they are at Boadway's.

Rhinestones and used for the effective trimming.

An evening gown of Colorspun Crepe with metallic lace. Over one arm there is swung a filmy layer of flame colored chiffon.

MODISH APPAREL

FOR THE LARGER WOMAN

What a relief it is to dismiss the annoyance of trips to the dressmaker and tedious fittings, not to mention the expense. A visit to Boadway's displays will convince you that it can be done. Here are dresses, suits, fracks, etc., designed by specialists who know the trick of putting slenderizing lines into apparel for full-formed women.

HATS PARISIAN

IN THEIR AIR

Ravishing hats, reminiscent of the Bois and the Boulevard, run the gamut of shapes from small to large and narrow to wide, with infinite charm in each variation. Flattering large hats with irregular brims have graceful swirls of ostrich and coq. Hats of medium size are gaily all-over embroidered, while small toques have gleaming metallic effects that give a spirited and just-enough saucy air.

FOR THE FIRST TIME

a truly drastic style change is upon us. Merchants everywhere are charged with the responsibility of adequately portraying to their buying public these new features and in wisely directing their choice. The longer skirt is now an established fashion fact; flat drapings for frocks, ending even below the ankle-length skirt; separate skirts are tightly wrapped around the hips, and sponsord the style change, appearing everywhere in the new long-lined designs. It is a complete reversal of the styles of the past few years. The pace is set.

Fur Fashions Are Stunning Additions to the Season's Modes

NEW FURS USED THIS YEAR

The winter wardrobe of the smartly dressed woman is not complete without its quota of furs. They need not all be new furs. In fact, many of them are furs of long standing in a family. But they must be cut and shaped in the newest fashion if they are to constitute any sort of an addition to the existing wardrobe.

Now this season there is no end to the shapes and styles that furs are taking on. You can have fur in any of fashion's guises from a complete dress to a breath of a neckpiece chosen to be the finishing touch to some handsomely executed costume. You can have anything this winter in fur from the narrow, long cape with its chin collar, to the full coat with Mandarin sleeves. And fur, you will find, when made up into these longer and more sumptuous styles is treated very much like any other fabric. It has its metal girdle, and it has its crocheted or metal buttons. It is not treated as a thing apart by itself, but it slides into the general category of design in a most effective manner.

There is always a great question about which will be the most popular furs. But that is, after all, a futile standard to try to establish. As long as a fur is handsome and as long as it is in perfect condition it cannot help but be in style. It is so handsome a thing and so much in a class by itself that until the lines of the fur garment ars hopelessly out of style it remains in the running of smart clothes.

Of course, the wraps of fur will take on the general lines of the winter's mode, which happens to very much changed from the mode of last season. Therefore the purchase of new fur wraps will be very much the order of the day, for it is almost as inexpensive to have a new fur wrap when styles are so radically changed, as it is to try to have the old things done over.

Collars, and sleeves, you can see by the accompanying illustrations, from C. C. Shayne & Co., are so ample and large and graceful that, while they eat up vast quantities of the little animals' skins, still they do serve to add most becoming lines to one's general manner of dressing. There is nothing in the world so becoming to feminine beauty as is fur. Its softness about the face and wrapped about one's form gives a certain air and grace and charm to one's appearance that is something quite in a class by itself. Even the smallest bit of fur somewhere about the throat can add an iota of charm and becomingness which a frock or suit might otherwise lack entirely. Every clever designer knows this and, with the advent of the more picturesque styles, you will find that fur enters more and more largely into the general scheme of extraneous decoration as well as into the making of entire coats and wraps.

A fur neckpiece is something that every woman wishes to own. In fact, if she lays any claim at all to being a smart dresser, she must have some sort of a fur neckpiece if not many of them. They have a way of snapping up a dress or a suit or even a wrap as nothing else can possibly do and the addition of a fur neckpiece about the throat will sometimes be the positive making of a whole costume.

The thicker and fuzzier furs are popular for these extra neckpieces and when they are made up with the head and tail of an animal appearing as a part of them, then they are the most popular of all.

Fur hats will be good for wear along with these fuzzy fur neckpieces and when the turbans are cut after the high, straight manner of the Russians then they are the smartest and, perhaps, the most becoming of all.

For wraps there will be a great deal of caracul used. There is the American broadtail which was so popular last year. That will again, it seems, stand in the fore ranks of fur fashions. Squirrel and sable are extremely good for whole wraps and for the shorter sport coats as well. And they are using a great deal of marmot for the making of the little fur jackets.

Copyright C. C. Shayne & Co.

The grayness of squirrel has a youthful look and a becoming tendency which makes it ever popular among many classes of women. This one has all of the newer lines and its skins are cleverly put together.

Mink skins when artfully put together make interesting patterns and designs spread over the area of a full length wrap. This one is made of the best quality of Eastern Mink.

A broadtail coat made of handsome, selected skins is made on straight and simple lines and is trimmed with a rolling collar of brown Kolinsky.

A graceful cape is made of dyed muskrat. It has a high, rolling collar that is faced with ermine to give it a becoming quality and a handsome look about the face.

Enters the Fall Season with Many New Styles of Footwear

MILADY'S AUTUMN SHOES

It is unquestionably agreed that Milady's footwear apparel of today is of recognized importance in completing her wardrobe. How interesting the trend of styles has been these last few seasons! From the ugly, heavy, sturdy footwear of but a few years ago, we have gone to the delicate trend of "Beautiful Shoes," that lends a hand in completing feminine charm.

Through the efforts and plans of far seeing shoe manufacturers it is now possible for our American women in cities of any consequence to obtain the newest vogues in footwear, at the same moment that they make their bow in style centers. Thousands and thousands of workers are welding together their thoughts and ambitions to make the American woman the most discriminate and tasteful dresser in the world.

With Fall here, and the many casts of brown, twine, blue and the ever dominant black, Milady will confidently stroll into the local booterie expecting to find there harmonizing footwear for her new, brisk-weather outfit and they will be there, for never before have the designers and makers of women's apparel worked so closely together as they have for this Fall's output.

When selecting your footwear, be just to yourself. Bear in mind that every style will not appeal to every foot, but among the many beautiful patterns that can be shown you at your local shop, it is most certain that you will find there the proper last, heel and style that will harmonize with your costume and beautify your foot. Style is beautiful only when intelligently applied.

A beautiful evening slipper of silver brocade that will play an important part in matchiing up evening footwear in so far as it carries in its color scheme.

A very pretty cut out strap model that is exceptionally appropriate for semi-evening wear. It is a most comfortable slipper for dancing.

The shapes of toes for Fal are somewhat modified. Not s Frenchy as in previous seasons but as is shown in the illustration from I. Miller & Sons, a little more Americanized and graceful.

With the development of the style shoe business, the thinking and progressive manufacturers have studied the requirements of the average foot and have combined a certain amount of comfort with the most delicate of styles. In other words, the American product of "Beautiful Shoes" is now recognized as the outstanding leader in style footwear of the entire world. But a few years ago, Paris and London were the centers for original and pretty footwear, but the American designer and craftsman has outdistanced our friendly competitors and it is a very common sight for an admirer of "Beautiful Shoes" to immediately detect American footwear on the streets of Paris and London today and to judge them unquestionably to be the prettiest.

Many a manufacturer of late has gone to foreign lands to search for new creations in footwear styles and ways of manufacture only to come back with a firmer determination that America with the progressive American manufacturers hold their own with the leaders in the production of shoes.

So, now walk into your shoe shop and look over the new styles for Fall. Many beautiful tongue or Colonial effects will be placed before you that are designed particularly for the longer skirt or slender woman. These styles will predominate with the higher heels in the Spanish or LXV heel types. There will also be several new, beautiful effects in cut-out strap patterns of silver, gold and satin brocade effects.

The Silhouette of the Street Dress has Changed Materially

NEW DRESSES OF INTERESTING CHARACTER

The warm, winter dress has come to be a creation of much importance. It is no longer a thing that will be covered by a coat and, therefore, to be passed over lightly. Not at all! Now it stands as a design by itself in a class by itself and the woman who is without one of these costumes might just as well consider herself out of the running.

For the days between seasons a frock of this character does perfectly. It dresses you with the least amount of trouble. It is all there — altogether — all ready to create your costume alone by itself without a thought being given to extra little accessories and fixings. It is, indeed, a Godsend of a dress for the woman who must be out all day and on duty as a self respecting, interesting character through all the hours of that day.

While it is all very well to have a dress that, once it is buttoned into place, is satisfactory in itself, at the same time it must be a perfect dress before it can stand alone in this totally independent fashion. One dress like this is all you need—one that has been thoroughly suited to your own, individual type of figure but when choosing it, you must use all of the education and foresight and style sense that you can summon if you are to be at all flattered by the results when you have donned the creation for your first fall appearance. It will last on through the season with ever increasing compliments attracted to you, if you are wise when you make your initial selection.

NEW FALL STYLES

The silhouette of the street dress has changed materially. It is long, quite long indeed. It has sleeves that are as wide as you wish, some of them being draped and hung loosely until they even touch the ground. It has a long waistline that is bloused or draped in some manner and that ends frequently in a tight line or band about the hips. It has a collar high and rolled about the throat and, somewhere at the neckline and again at the waistline, there are a few large, handsome and extremely decorative buttons, which, in many cases are the sole trimming that the gown will boast. Indeed, it is universally true that the newer dresses are largely a matter of line and anything that can contribute to that general classic shape and drapery is welcomed by the woman who wishes to look as smart in her clothes as she possibly can.

Copyright Michael

Black draped wrap with squirrel collar and platinum lining. The exquisite draping of this wrap make it notable.

NEW WRAPS AND COATS

OF APPEALING CHARACTER

Not a little attention should be given to the new wrap or coat, as this season brings many and varied modes both as to style and fabric. The soft, pliable pile fabrics are especially favored among women of Southern California for their luxurious and graceful qualities. Favored among the many new fabrics featured are: Fashona, Valverette, Lustrosa, Marvella and Gerona. The last two are not the newest, but among the most serviceable and practical.

The colors that promise first place for the new season are Navy and Black, also a world of new shades of Brown. However, no other colors are more outstanding today than Navy Blue and Maley Brown. The fur trimmings featured are: Caracul, Beaver, Squirrel and Wolf, and may be had in a variety of colors to suit the individual taste and personality.

The wrap or coat is an essential garment and certainly never more practical than now to wear with the smart new autumn dress.

FURS

HIGHLY FEATURED

Furs hold a place in the heart of every woman and miss that wears the new fall dress. A small choker scarf or cape adds to the costume like nothing else you can buy, and may be worn during the afternoon when the wrap is too warm. There is a wonderful variety to choose from. The Fox Chokers find big favor for this necessary requirement.

STYLES FOR PARTICULAR MEN

About the home a man seeks comfort and, if he prides himself upon his dressing, he likes to look well dressed even in these more careless moments of his day. The well cut and well made dressing gown is, therefore, a thing of importance to the well dressed man and cannot be lightly overlooked when he is selecting his clothes for the Fall and Winter. The dressing gown shown in the illustration is one of the handsomer ones being shown. It is made of a very fine quality of blue and white brocade and just by way of a little decoration its cuffs, collar and lapels are faced with plain blue silk.

There are all sorts of new things in the way of smoking jackets to be donned when one reaches one's home and wants immediately to throw off the coat he has been wearing through the long day. Many of these are so excellently made that they cannot be told from the outer coat, but, at the same time, they have a roominess and a comfortableness never to be approached by an out-door garment.

The interesting and beautifully woven tweeds and mixtures which are being shown for fall clothes for men are a positive inspiration to the man who takes a pride in being well dressed. They have all of the quality and fineness that could be demanded by the most fastidious taste and so excellently is their texture handled that they make up into suits and coats which have never been equalled for keeping their shape and standing up against hard wear.

The more simply a man's clothes are cut, of course, the more elegant is his appearance. All sorts of fads are put forward now and again as being the latest thing in men's clothes but, after all, the steady old standby well-cut clothes are the ones that men of good taste in dressing the most anxious to have.

A belted top coat of camel's hair cloth with wide rolled lapels.

In the Brenwood Clothes advertised below this unobtrusive good taste has always been a feature Never in these clothes has good taste been sacrificed to "novelty," since it is a well-known fact that men who are looked upon as style leaders are never wearers of "freak" clothes.

One interesting thing about the Fall clothes for men will be their colorings. In the soft tweeds and heavy mixtures there is plenty of opportunity for a man to have quite beautiful colors without their being in the least conspicuous. It is that soft, feathery haze that covers the material of these softer weaves which reduces the color to a mere suggestion rather than anything designed to "hit you in the eye."

The black and white tweeds, commonly known as salt and pepper mixtures, will be the most fashionable things for Fall and Winter wear. They are so satisfactory in every way, for they are the last things to show hard wear and they are usually becoming to most any type of man.

In the picture there is shown one of these suits cut along the very latest lines of conservative taste. It is a suit which will recommend itself to any man looking for something for the Winter which will give him all-around service and good wear.

Attention may well be called to the comfort-giving roominess of the overcoats illustrated. This is an era of activity, and man will have elbow room, especially when he is out of doors—room to give play to his arms and shoulders when he drives or walks.

Overcoat materials, too, are very attractive in that they are soft and pliable, but "husky" looking—warm and comfortable without bulky clumsiness. Many of the Society Brand Coats shown by Brenner & Wood are of the buxom belted variety, but more conservative styles are full-backed without belts.

SUITS FEATURE FOREMOST FALL FASHION

Suits are among the very foremost features of fashion for the fall and winter months of 1922. What woman is there who is happy unless her wardrobe contains at least one suit designed according to the latest dictates of fashion?

And this season, there are just as many changes in the silhouette of the suit as there are in any other avenue of fashion. They have new details as well as totally new lines for the silhouette and they are cut with much attention paid to the gracefulness of their lines in every small particular. There is the tailored suit, of course. There always will be that. But there are also this new and dressy suits, like those from the "House of Youth," shown in the photos opposite, which are more in the manner of the Parisian and which serves for almost any occasion during the day until the hours of evening are entered upon.

Fur trimmings will be an important feature. And then there are the masses of embroidery and braiding with which the newer suits are fairly encumbered. There is nothing overly conspicuous about the forms of trimming and decoration. In fact, they harmonize rather beautifully with the suit and its original design. But there is no mistaking the fact that the suit of the present season is a more or less elaborate affair and, even though you are not "hit in the face" by the sumptuousness of the design, still it is there and you cannot mistake the fact that much care and attention have been lavished upon the designing and the making of the suit.

While the cape is rather a thing of the past, it clings still, to the suit as a part of the general design and cut. Often you will see a three-quarter coat or a shorter one, even, with its little cape all included in the design, and you know that, without that cape, the suit would be an ineffectual thing with no claim to be present among the modern styles.

Copyright House of Youth

This shows a tow piece detachable cape suit in Martin Marleen with a crossed beaver collar, some large decorative buttons and a decoration of embroidery about the waistline.

A copper snake belt holds in place the embroidered coat of this three-piece suit of black marleen, with its huge fox collar and a blouse of embroidered henna crepe.

A street suit of navy Poiret twill is made with interesting sleeves cuffed in henna brocade and with a deep, circular Parisian collar parting over another insert of that same brocade.

The basque and its flaring poplum have come into their own in this truly modern street suit of black juina trimmed with wide bands of heavy fox fur.

Waistlines, as far as suits are concerned, are dropping, and you will feel yourself listed among the leaders of smart fashions if you choose a suit that has its waistline somewhere—anywhere — below a normal point. There are apt to be embroiderings about the belt or braidings are placed there, or in some way that line is distinguished and pointed out.

You may think it strange that a waistline, especially when it is so broad and wide, should be accentuated by any extra application of trimming but, after all, that is the way that fashion has chosen to take this season and your waistline, in a suit, may be just as wide and thick as it likes provided it is held rather firmly in place and just manages to avoid that sloppiness of appearance that is so apt to be its fault unless you study the intricacies of fashion and the way they have of avoiding just that dire conclusion.

Suits with this new, dressy tendency are enough of a costume in themselves and the women and girls who wear them choose, often, to refuse to remove their coats under any circumstances. They are so perfect in themselves that they cannot afford to be pulled apart to show the skirt without its accompanying coat. If you need extra warmth when you go out into the bitter winter winds, why then wear a top coat over the suit. That is the idea. But do not waste your style efforts by parting the unity of that coat and skirt and making the suit appear anything less of a stunning quantity than it really is.

Women of slim figures take most naturally to the winter suit, for its lines seem to suit them most perfectly. They can afford any extra bunchiness about the waist or shoulders or sleeves and the height or apparent height of their figures helps considerably to carry off the lines.

It will be noticed that the skirts of suits are a trifle shorter than are the skirts of more formal dresses. That is for a very good reason and it is a principle adopted by the leaders of fashion in Paris. Something that is worn on the street and when walking should be allowed in the length and width of its skirt to give more freedom for striding along.

With the First Breezes of Fall Comes Warmer Clothes for the Kiddies

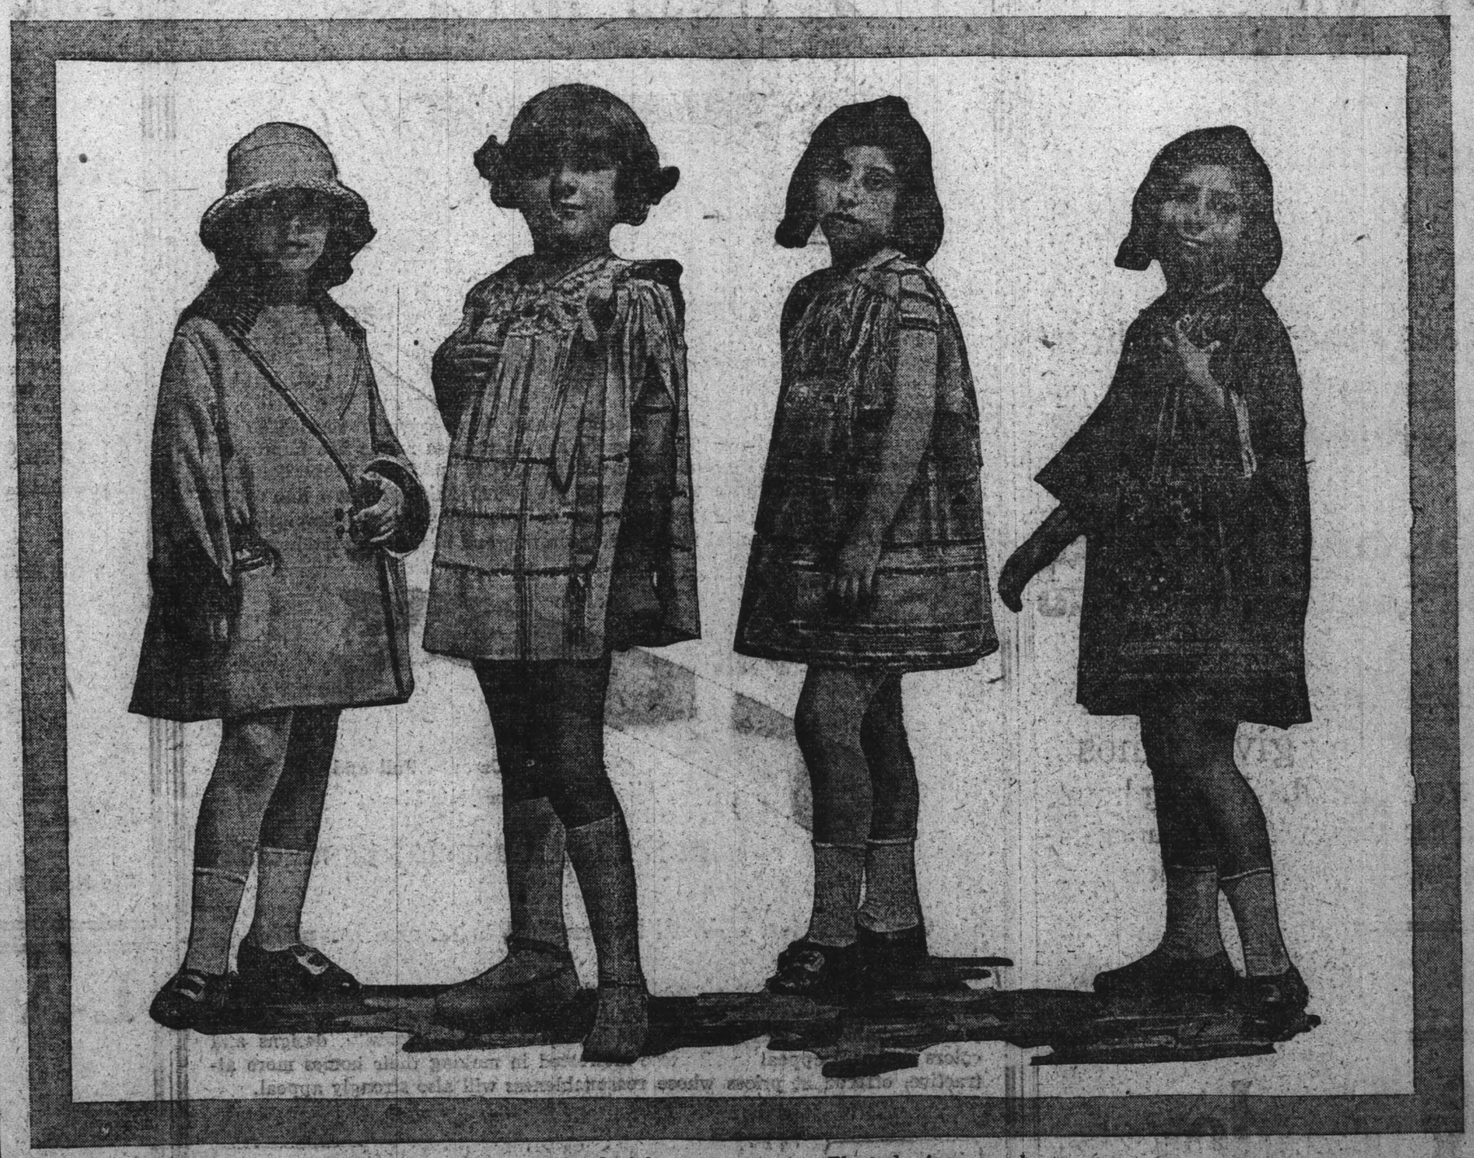
STYLES FOR MILADY'S SISTER

Children's clothes, in America, are becoming a fine art. They are the very acme of design, and they are so perfectly carried out along such simple and straightforward lines that they stand out as high lights in the creations of a fashion season. This year they are even better than ever, for they have reached a state of evolution where nothing seems to be left for them to accomplish in the way of perfecting the designs.

Perhaps it is because the general run of styles of the present day are so well suited to be adapted into children's frocks, and perhaps it is because the children themselves are demanding better and ever better clothes in which to make their youthful fashion appearance, but certain it is that we can bow to the well dressed kiddies and learn much from the things that have been accomplished for them in the way of dress.

So many of the children's dresses for this new season are made of two materials. Some of them are of the same material in contrasting colors and others use two widely differing fabrics in the same color to gain the same effect of contrast. This having been established as a sort of plan upon which to proceed, the designers are going on to cut the frocks largely over the one-piece foundation, varying that in many and different ways to get the interesting effects that they are after.

Then there is another general characteristic of children's clothes which cannot be ignored even for the least of them. They must be partially or altogether hand made, for in very many instances it is these hand stitches which add the whole style to a small garment which might, under any other circumstances, be quite unnotable. Even when the two contrasting materials are used they are more often than not put togethre with hand stitches that have a way of showing as a sort of trimming adding very much to the interest of the little frock.



The top coat for the little girl is sweetest when it has a bit of trimming as this one of Royal blue velour trimmed with cerise velour and some red and blue beads.

A little pleated frock of fine rose crepe de chine has a yoke of real lace to make it important enough for the little tot's party dress.

Until a child has reached the age of six or seven, his or her clothes are usually made of wash material for all the months of the year, and this is true for obvious reasons having to do with the wash tub and spots and so on. After that age the children graduate into jerseys and serges and even into taffetas and crepes for very best Sunday go-to-meeting wear.

Coats for little girls are made very much along the lines of their mothers' wrappy coats. They have huge sleeves and full lines, and they are trimmed with high fur collars that wrap around their throats and tickle them under the chins. Many of these miniature wraps are made out of bright colored homespuns and tweeds and are lined with plain silks to vary the shade just an iota. Some of them are made of heavy serge and are trimmed with row upon row of braiding. Others are made of the soft duvetynes which so delight their elders' hearts and which have so much to offer to the dressing of a little miss.

Party dresses for kiddies are still about as frilly and ruffly as they have been through all the ages. They are made of the fine organdies that are so outstanding and childish in the lines that they assume. And they are very much more beautiful when they are trimmed with extra folds and flounces of their own material than when they are overloaded with appliques of lace or embroidery or any such paraphernalia.

A sash is a thing that always delights the heart of a little girl. So let her have a sash by all means, for this is the year when she will find that accessory quite in the height of fashion for the creatures of her place and time. It can have a wide spreading bow at the back and streamers as long as she pleases.

THE LARGER HATS PREDOMIATE

In New York there was recently held a really de luxe millinery show. In fact, it is carried on every year at one of the largest and smartest hotels. Although held primarily for buyers from all parts of the country women not only from the city itself, but those socially prominent in many other cities, flocked to this showing of the best American made hats and thereby gleaned their information for their individually adopted style in hats for the coming season. It is a fascinating thing to mix a study of fashion with a social event in this way and women are the first to appreciate the interesting opportunity.

Hats stand high in importance in the calculations of any smart woman. For, without the proper hat and one that becomes your own style of beauty, you are nothing in the running of fashion. You need good-looking hats just as certainly as you need good food, for your soul starves and your nature becomes a poor, flabby thing if you fail to attract the just admiration that a becoming hat just naturally brings your way.

From the little, close-fitting hats of last winter we have evolved to very much more elaborate affairs and ones that are the proud possessors of much more dignity and grace of line. There is an interesting reason for all of this, too. You see, since the dresses have taken on more picturesque designs and since they are no longer the simple, little, unadorned one-piece affairs, why the hats must necessarily keep pace with the standard set by the frocks. They cannot now be those little informal, pull-down-about-the-face things that would go with the simpler clothes. No, now they must be more studied in character and, therefore, they seem to possess many more of the characteristics of true beauty. They have a chance to test their metal, as it were.

Copyright Bruck-Weiss

That monkey fur is still in the running is exhibited by this panne velvet toque trimmed with that graceful fur mingled with Japanese aigrettes.

The velvet hat droops on the sides and, as in this instance, is very often trimmed with cocardes of stiff ribbon.

The large hats are very large, and they droop at the sides most conspicuously as is so well shown in one of the Bruck-Weiss hats on this page. That is a typical model for the picture variety of hat. It has no undue amount of trimming or fixings about it but what trimming there is, shows up in a most decorative manner, making every possible use of the given opportunity.

In selecting one of the new hats for fall, be very careful to do the trying-on when you are arrayed in one of your new frocks with its longer, fuller lines. If you neglect to do this and find only a hat that is becoming to your face, you will have a bitter disappointment waiting for you. You will live to find out that the lines of the hat are all wrong when considered in combination with the lines of the dress. No, this is entirely a new hat fitting proposition which faces you this season and you want to spend every effort in your artistic power when making your selection.

Stand up before the mirror. Consider your whole length, not just a portion of it. Turn about and view the hat from all sides with relation to the total make-up of your gown and coat. If you do this, you will have a great chance of success, but if you are more helter-skelter about the thing you will live to rue the day.

Ribbons are quite the thing for the fall and winter hats. And these are made into stiff upstanding bows that have their own independent ways as far as the hats are concerned. In almost every instance the ribbon trimmings add height or breadth or extra proportion in some way to the hat as it stands. You will see large rosettes on the front, at the sides and sometimes even under the brim. And while there are not many streamers to be seen, there are still ends of ribbon that stick out into the air farther even than to the bows.

BRIGHT NEW MERCHANDISE TELLS THE FALL FASHIONS IN GLENDALE SHOP WINDOWS

A Little Trip Through the Stores in the Black and White of Printer's Ink, the Glendale Daily Press

With all the trophies of skill and expert knowledge of goods and merchandise, secured in the markets of many cities, the Glendale shops and stores are filled today. Their windows shine with brand new goods, carrying the latest motif of Dame Fashion in her varied moods and whims.

A shopping tour through the Glendale business streets show thousands of enchanting things awaiting their new owners, the good people of Glendale, who, their anticipation of evil from unrest over, are now in the eve of buying those things which give those tones of distinction and prosperity.

Lady Glendale may replenish her entire wardrobe, and still find things to adorn still awaiting inspection in her shops. Sire Glendale may find here awaiting him the very latest styles in things men are going to wear this fall and winter, picked out for him with distinctiveness of taste that renders unnecessary a large stock, a voluminous display, since already good taste has discarded the second choice.

Let us take a walk in black and white printers ink through these many shops, advertising in this edition of the Glendale Daily Press.

FETCHING MILLINERY AT COURT SHOP.

Most every woman desires to wear exclusive things, and especially when it comes to hats. Well, if you are really looking for something different and something exclusive, stop in and see the hats at Josephine Des Mazes'court shop No. 2 on East Broadway. She has some wonderful models and at such reasonable prices too.

Miss Des Mazes does not have any special sales, but every Saturday she will run a special on one hat. A desirable feature about her merchandise is that there are no two hats alike. Miss De Mazes says she appreciates the way Glendale people are staying in Glendale to shop, and she is trying to give them something different in the way of hats.

THE ORIENTAL GIFT MOTIF.

We've oft times heard folks say, "Oh, how I love the atmosphere of the Orient." Well, it may be found right here in Glendale, at "The Orient," a new Japanese shop on East Broadway, in Court Shop No. 3.

They have just recently opened up and carry a fine line of Japanese articles, such as kimonos, vases, candle sticks, book ends and glassware. "The Orient" was well-named for that idea is carried out throughout the entire store. Many pretty gift suggestions may be found here.

WONDERFUL SPORTS CLOTHES

Betty Ellen, at 215 South Brand, is showing a wonderful new line of sports clothes. The ever-popular velour and felt hats, either leather or yarn trimmed are being shown and make good looking beavers, too.

She has an exclusive new straight sweater coat of brushed camel's hair which is very attractive. It is a straight box coat and buttons right down the front. There is also a slip-on of the same material. These sweaters have become quite the rage among eastern college girls for sports wear and they should prove popular here in the West.

Very smart for sports wear, is the new pongee undergarment, on account of its being so easily laundered and of its wonderful wearing quality.

Another item of especial attraction was a clever Jersey dress in chocolate brown, trimmed with the new cross stitch in contrasting colors.

BEAUTY PARLOR THAT IS COZY RETREAT

Mrs. Walcott of Walcott's Beauty Parlor, is a cosy, nooky place, at 136 South Brand, is showing a splendid line of Cliff-Laray cosmetics, which are made especially for her shops in Glendale and Eagle Rock. This line includes face powders, talcum, rouge, hair tonics, creams and other articles for milady's toilet.

The cheery atmosphere of this shop makes one feel at home. It has just been newly redecorated in rose and black, while the Eagle Rock shop is finished in blue and cream. Mrs. George McCormick is in charge of the Eagle Rock shop.

Mrs. Walcott offers an exceptional service to the people of Glendale, and caters especially to children.

LATEST MOTIF AT PENDROY'S

The women have absolutely adopted the long skirts. It could hardly be any other way on account of everything that goes with this style this fall. For instance, the shoes have French heels, the hats are large and coats are not quite as long. The latest word from Paris is three-fourths length coat as the latest.

This is the word that comes from models at Pendroy's, and they should know, for they carry only the latest. It is said that one of the new dress features is the full skirt and long, which is not as graceful and seemingly as attractive as the shorter lines. Of course, the large hat is popular, but the very small hat finds favor also with the long line garments.

Trimmings this season embody gold and silver metallic cloth and lace. On the street costume, these trimmings would be used on the hat or on the evening gown for evening wear.

The irregular skirt line is good and a new girdle is coming in. It is called the "kerchief girdle," made of flowered material, three-cornered with the point over one hip or directly in front. This carries out the Egyptian trim which at this time is very popular. This girdle can be made of either flowered material or embroidery motifs in jewel effects or colored beads.

With the long skirts come longer, tighter sleeves. An especially new sleeve is the "Daucet" which is an old-fashioned leg-o'-mutton sleeve, with the exception that instead of the puff being on the top of the sleeve it is placed in the garment upside down, all the fullness being under the arm.

High collars seem to be lending favor to the newest costumes, as well as the old-fashioned Bertha collar. The collars for wraps and coats are shown with wide, full collars of fur or materials. The gauntlet cuff is a new feature. As for gloves, long sleeves demand short gloves, but the long glove is good for afternoon or evening wear.

Pendroy's have a splendid stock of all the latest things for milady and they can make many good suggestions if you are thinking of buying that new winter coat or gown or hat.

INTERESTING SUGGESTIONS FOR WOMAN WHO IS THINKING OF BUYING A FUR COAT

At the left is a garment suitable for motoring and under all conditions when durability is required. It is of raccoon fur.

The other coat combines "cats" and "coons." It is fastened with large leather buttons. A silken cord tends to soften and "tame" the fur.

THAT FALL OVERCOAT AT NISLE'S

It has been said that "Good clothes are a man's asset." If this is true and it must be, just take a look at the suits carried by Ed Nisle, 135½ South Brand. He has a fine display of new fall and winter suits and overcoats, just the thing you have been looking for, and clothes that you would be proud to wear.

SPECIAL CORSET FOR EVERY WOMAN.

La Facile Corset Shop will hold its formal opening on Saturday, October 11, at Court Shop, No. 2, on East Broadway.

This exclusive shop will carry corsets designed for the individual and Mrs. Anderson, who is in charge, makes a specialty of fitting stout people. She also is a specialist on surgical supports.

NEW SILKS AT STOCKING BOX.

"The silk our grandmothers wore." Nearly all of us will remember Corticelli silk, both in dress goods, silk thread and yarns. Well, there is an entirely new line being put out by Corticelli and that is a wonderful line of silk hosiery. As you know, Corticelli silk goods are of the best, so naturally their hose would follow along that line.

They are beautiful beyond description. The perfectness of their weave and the shimmer of the silk go to make up stockings never before equalled. They are all full-fashioned and are guaranteed to be as nearly perfect as the best silk and the most skilled labor can make them.

This new brand will be found at "The Stocking Box" in the Court Shops, on East Broadway. They have a splendid supply and are the only agents for this brand in Glendale. The prices are very reasonable for such a beautiful hose.

NEW MEN'S GOODS AT CARLOCK'S

In speaking of styles, we must not leave the men out entirely. Glendale has some fine stores to help out the man shopper. I. B. Carlock, 135½ South Brand, certainly has everything a man needs. He carries hats, ties, hose, handkerchiefs, in fact all men's accessories.

Everything is of the newest material and the prices are reasonable, too. If you are looking for a gift for your brother, father or sweetheart, drop in and see their display.

DAINTY UNDIES FOR YOU

Gordon's, at 119 North Brand, certainly have a splendid stock of underthings for both women and children. Their assortment is very large and you are sure to find just what you want, either in cotton or silk.

Then, too, their sweaters for these chilly mornings and evenings are attractive, not alone in make, materials, but also in price. Just drop in and see them.

LITTLE ONES' COATS READY

If you are planning on buying the "little one" a new winter coat or hat, you should drop in at the Glendale Dry Goods Company, 115 East Broadway, and see their new line. They have a lovely children's department, with sweaters, coats, hats and other necessities.

For the grown-ups, their ladies' sport skirts and sweaters, either tuxedo style or slip-ons are very good. They show only the latest models and at medium prices, within the reach of all.

Alterations increasing the floor space 1500 square feet have just been completed. A rapidly increasing demand for a larger stock in the ladies' ready-to-wear and infant departments has made the expansion imperative, according to Mr. Joe Holtzman and Miss Minnie Holtzman who own the store.

Mr. Holtzman and his sister have been in business a little over a year and their rapid growth is a recognition of the quality and price of their goods by the people of Glendale.

The two merchants were in business in El Paso for some time before they established their store here. Arthur Holtzman, a brother, is operating a dry goods store in San Pedro.

FASHION CENTER DISPLAY.

Their stock of warm, winter coats is very complete, being made of the newest materials such as Orlando cloth or Bolivia and trimmed with real beaver, squirrel or wolf. Their French seal coats with squirrel collar and cuffs are so attractive and the prices are truly reasonable.

In their dress department they have a clever little model of panne velvet, elaborately beaded and embroidered in contrasting colors. Have you seen the new and popular shade called poinsettia red? Well, the Fashion Center has a supply of blouses in this new color

TREND OF FASHION

As the season advances the great favor shown to wood tones becomes more pronounced although contrary to expectations much navy blue is in evidence. Certain of the coutourieres still remain faithful to black and black and white effects.

To the American woman, generally speaking, there is no more flattering color than brown in all its wide range of shades from the pale tone of burnt bread to the deeper tobacco shades. Among the most strikingly effective costumes introduced this year are those which show a harmonious combination of several shades of brown. Another exceedingly interesting feature is the use of black and brown together. A black hat is worn with a suit of brown or vice versa, a caramel colored or dark brown hat tops a frock of black and the result is exceedingly smart and very becoming.

Frequently on a suit or tailored frock of brown the touch of black is introduced in trimmings of monkey fur which, rather to the surprise of many, is still decidedly in vogue.

This fur forms the collar on the suit sketched and a touch of black is repeated in embroidery of heavy silk. Fashioned of a velvety surfaced wool the suit has a short fairly loose coat and a pleated skirt attached to a blouse of satin finished crepe the same shade.

TREND OF FASHION

By HELEN MERRILL EMERY

Brown, dark blue and black are the colors which stand out at any gathering of smartly dressed women. Brown of course was heralded as the color of the season but it is somewhat of a surprise to note the allegiance still given navy blue and black. At a recent exhibition of the newest and smartest models, street costumes of blue outnumbered those of any other color. In developing the formal afternoon dress and dinner gown many of the best known designers showed a distinct feeling for black, both velvet and crepe. They are not sombre, however, for in almost every instance color is introduced in unusual and original ways.

The spectators also displayed a preference for tailored dresses and suits of navy blue fashioned on lines of graceful softness. A count of the hats worn by this fashionable assemblage proved that for the moment a black hat is the choice of the greater number. Black velvet hats were in the majority. Many of them were large and simply trimmed with a large bow of satin or moire ribbon arranged at the right side to hang over the drooping brim.

A New Version of the Circular Skirt

One of the most attractive as well as the simplest frocks seen recently in New York was worn by a young girl at a restaurant famous for its fashionable patrons. It was of blue Poiret twill made with a long, rather tight waist and a long skirt somewhat circular in effect. Where the skirt joined the waist was a girdle of Roman striped metallic ribbon twisted into two strands, brought around the waist, and tied in small bows in front. These were about an inch apart. The sleeves, wide and loose at the wrists, were faced with the ribbon which turned back to form deep cuffs. The skirt was caught up in front so that the fulness was more noticeable there than in back or at the sides.

Equally simple and in excellent taste is the frock sketched which shows the new circular drape of the skirt and the new circular cuffs which have been introduced this season by one of the most famous French designers.

TO AVOID SHRINKAGE.

It is important when laundering wool to keep the temperature of the washing water, the rinsing water, and the drying room the same. This will prevent shrinking.

THE HAT MAKES THE WOMAN ATTRACTIVE

By HEDDA HOYT

NEW YORK, N. Y., Oct. 13.—Many plain women are considered beautiful simply because they always wear becoming hats. A hat can either make or mar a woman. It is the most important factor in a fashionable woman's wardrobe.

This season we have as great assortments of hats as we have faces but the four types which will predominate are the wide brimmed, slightly dropping shade which the Parisians have been wearing all summer and are still wearing, the draped turbans, the tricorns and the poke effects.

The wide brimmed hat is one which should be chosen with discrimination, as few faces can wear it becomingly. A small face is entirely lost under its brim and becomes insipid, whereas a large

Truths in Epigram

There are no little events with the heart; it magnifies everything. It places in the same scale the falling of an empire and the dropping of a woman's glove; and the glove generally weighs more than the empire.—Honore de Balzac.

All are bigots who limit the divine within the boundaries of their present knowledge.—Margaret Fuller.

UNITED STATES CREDIT

Five hundred millions of long time bonds are being sold by the government. The bonds pay 4 1-4 per cent interest. First purchases were at 50 cents above par. Before the war, remarks a commentator, the buyers would gladly have paid $30 above par for such bonds. Says he then: "Times change. So does Uncle Sam's credit—after getting mixed up with Europe." For the aspersion on the government's financial standing, there is not a shadow of valid excuse. In this instance there is the excuse that the writer quoted draws a large salary for nagging not only most of Europe, but his own, his native land. But it is not a valid excuse.

There were periods before the war when money did not readily find a field for investment in industrials. Lapses in development have marked the history of every people. When money was seeking investment, and there was lack of a promising field, it turned naturally to the government. The bonds of the United States were and are, as good as gold, convertible always into cash. Investment in them was and is perfectly safe. The rate of interest paid is low. At present there are countless opportunities that afford greater profits. New areas are being made productive. Great plans for reclaiming lands are being put into effect. Mountain streams are being made to yield of the power that for ages had gone to waste. Manufacturing is being done on a large scale in such places, for example, as southern California, where a few years ago there had not been a dream that circumstances would take such a trend. Thus there is a call for money, and for the money there is available a security as absolute as the most cautious investor could desire. This readily accounts for the fact that the capitalist has not at present the old eagerness to procure government bonds. It is not that the bonds are less valuable or stable, but that he can make his money earn more in other channels.

TEMPERAMENTAL PETS

It long has seemed to be understood that an artist had the right to be temperamental. Thus the great singer, for instance, was privileged to display, under guise of temperament, a selfish, greedy, spiteful and nasty disposition. The opera singer tore her hair and sulked in a manner that should have been rewarded with the equivalent of a spanking. Each outbreak passed as a showing of that temperamental quality that was supposed to a part of genius. This has been true off the stage, or on. Whistler, famous etcher, exercised always the right to be an insolent boor, and instead of being reprimanded, was esteemed by this to have proved himself above the estate of common folk. But artists are rare, generally must be viewed from a distance, and to the public their tantrums are of small importance. It is different when baseball players, spoiled by enormous salaries, develop what they think will pass as temperament. What they need is to be disciplined, even to the extent of being "given the gate" as the saying is. Fine 'em, fire 'em, but make 'em behave. The recent world series of baseball games was for the most part an exhibition of temperament. The thousands who paid their way in daily, did not go to see a lot of athletes acting in the manner of brats. The players on one side defied orders. They did as they pleased, and they not only lost, but by their conduct leading to such defeat, they were disgraced. Every concern engaging the services of more than one person must have a directing head. When the subordinates decline to obey instruction they should be directed to go to the cashier and get their pay. Baseball is a perfectly legitimate calling. There is genuine admiration for the professional who plays it well. But he is not required to "show temperament" which is a process by which the individual of swelled head makes manifest what ails him.

SOMETHING FOR NOTHING

For many of the victims of swindling games there is a lack of acute sympathy because they had invested their money with the thought of getting something for nothing. It is not a rule governing human conditions that anybody shall obtain something for nothing. The victim of the swindle believes that he is going to win a bet on a horse race, information of the event to be obtained by tapping the wires. Not a wire will be tapped for his benefit, and probably the race he has in mind, never materializes on the track. The man who buys a spurious gold brick does so in the belief that he is getting stolen precious metal that the thief himself dares not take to open market. When the truth dawns upon the victims, it is useless for them to say much, as they stand on a moral plane with the rogues who fleeced them.

There are other types of swindling, however, that take in the honest investor. Much money has been made in oil, in land, in mines and in the movies. An investment in any of these activities might be good, often has been good. Honey-lipped emissaries go out among the credulous, persuading them to buy oil that the seller never had, even in remote prospect; to buy lands, that if they exist at all, are worthless and remote in the desert; to put their money in mines to which no title can be shown, and which perhaps are utterly barren of ore; to take stock in film concerns never organized, and never heard of in the region that is the center of the film industry. When the facts come out, it is difficult to apprehend the knaves, to punish them if caught, and impossible to recover the stolen money.

As swindlers do not reform, reformation will have to be on the part of the public. It owes to itself the duty of getting wise. There are plenty of honest men and honest institutions offering safe investments. It might be well for the person with surplus funds to seek out such, leaving the swindlers to starve, or to save themselves by frankly picking pockets.

A notable fact in the transportation world is that the Santa Fe railroad is about to spend $21,338,000 for rolling stock. In this item the thoughtful will discern signs not only that the west has developed rapidly, but that the process is expected to continue so that transportation lines must hustle to keep up with it.

Friends of the navy are much exercised over the fact that so large a proportion of the skilled personnel is to be dropped. There are many friends of the navy in the country, but no effective number of them seems to have got into congress. Nor have they succeeded in sending to congress anybody to represent their views.

The average woman doesn't want a vote if she can get a voter.

ROADS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The physical basis of the state is the road.

The road is the sign of order. Roman civilization, which first unified the world, marched upon roads, and road building was characteristically the pride of the Roman.

Dr. Frank Crane

Civilization is measured by transportation.

This does not mean that a population to be civilized must be always moving. What it means is that no human group such as a state or nation can develop without free interchange of products.

It is just as bad for a community of people to be shut off from and remain ignorant of other communities as it is for the human body to become constipated or for its life blood to cease to flow through its veins. Without circulation any animal body would speedily die. And without transportation any social body degenerates.

The point is that every social organization is a living thing, just as the human body is the aggregation of different materials into one living thing. And whatever is alive must keep changing. Fixity and permanency mean death.

It is the road which means life to a community. It is the road that preserves the fluidity of the human race.

History may be divided into three epochs represented typically by the three words, the Foot, the Wheel, and the Wing.

For perhaps millions of years the human race moved on Foot. Men were little better than animals, and progress was leaden.

Then came the Wheel, which covers the period of time from the dawn of authentic history up till the twentieth century. It includes the succeeding epochs of wheels made from tree trunk discs, spoked wheels, ox cart wheels, wheels of horse drawn vehicles, and finally the wheels driven by steam and electricity.

Next comes the epoch of the Wing, which is just beginning.

Our grandchildren will see the cities of Europe closely linked by air service. Air trips from the Atlantic to the Pacific across the United States will be common. Winger pioneers will assist the rapid development of China as of India, and of Africa.

The relationship between mechanical discovery and intellectual progress is very close. And there will doubtless be a social evolution a hundred times more rapid in the Wing epoch of the next fifty years than in any preceding epoch.

The whole problem of what we call progress is organization. That is to say, it consists in making a homogeneous organism out of heterogeneous and scattered materials.

The goal of the human race is solidarity. Religiously expressed, this is called human brotherhood. Economically expressed it is called socialization. Politically expressed it is called democracy.

But they all mean the same thing. They mean the substitution of world consciousness and world motives for all preliminary group consciousness and group motives.

They mean fewer and fewer fences, more and more roads.

QUERIES.

Literary Club Read "The Right Word"

J. M. Mackay: "About three years ago the members of our organization, with a commendable spirit of progressiveness, decided to form a literary club for the purpose of studying rhetoric in all its branches. From time to time disputes have arisen regarding grammatical construction, punctuation, diction, etc., and these problems have been brought to me for solution. For several months we have been trying to absorb and digest the information contained in 'The Right Word' column, and have been so impressed with your fairness that I have recommended that hereafter all rhetorical problems be sumbitted to you."

"The Right Word" in School

Katherine B. Heaton: "I am interested in your department and intend to make use of it in my English classes. I am interested in the question raised by Edna Rowell in one of your articles concerning the possessive form of a neuter noun. Most grammars, including a recently revised edition of Hodge and Lee, state that the use of the apostrophe and s with a neuter noun is incorrect, but considering the constant use in literature of such expressions as 'the day's work', 'the sun's rays', 'the moon's beams,' etc., I believe that few teachers would came to condemn them. A recent grammar, possible Perry's, disposes of the construction as 'genitive of relation,' which seems to me an admirable solution of the problem."

Bathroom and Bath-House

Moses N. Krakower: Replying to your query regarding "bathroom" and "bath-house" "The Right Word" calls your attention to the following: A bathroom is a room in which to bathe, and is usually fitted with a fixed bath-tub, wash-basin, latrine, and other toilet conveniences. A bath-house is a house with conveniences for taking baths, and in the United States is a small structure at a bathing-resort, used as a dressing-room.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

You're a pretty fair sort of fellow.
Well disposed and full of good intentions.
Not lacking in human sympathy.
Fallible like the rest of us.
For if not, you have nothing in common with us.

Infallibility is not an attribute of the human being.

Governments are only approximations of their purpose because the instruments of governments are fallible.

Because all vatiants may not be taken into account.

Chemical reactions may differ.

Because chemical reagents may differ.

All we know exactly is that two times two make four.

An air ship is builded.

Exactly according to plans and specifications.

And then there is an accident.

Something went wrong somewhere.

There was a variable element that could not be taken into account.

Timber that was used was perfect to all intents and purposes.

But somewhere there was a tiny flaw.

That the eye could not detect.

A cracking and splintering and something gave way.

Smash!

So it goes through human life.

Which is not a thing of exactitude.

Someone occupies a high position in government.

There was a tiny flaw somewhere as there was in the propeller of the airship.

Smash!

We are surprised perhaps.

Cannot understand it.

Because we do not take into account the fallibility of human nature.

That it has flaws and checks and cracks and splinters just as timbers have.

And they have to be taken into account.

So——

Considering human nature, its passions, weaknesses, cracks, defects, flaws and the like, the question is——

What kind of judgment would you visit upon others, if you took into account your own fallibility?

* * *

What would you want done to you?

If you were to be judged, for instance:

Would you be willing to be judged as you have visited judgment upon others?

If your reputation or property or whatever else was at stake:

Would you be willing to abide by the kind of judgments you have rendered through life?

Would you ask a judgment that was harsh, severe, exact, unrelenting?

Or would you ask a judgment that was merciful, kind, generous and understanding?

If you were president of a great nation:

Would you do as you would be done by?

Or would you form exact judgments, without an understanding of human fallibility, and put them in effect with fire and the sword?

There is a lot of life beside exact and unrelenting justice.

There is human nature.

SONGS OF THE POST'S POETS

Kitty of Coleraine—By Charles Dawson Shanley (1811-1875)

As beautiful Kitty one morning was tripping,
With a pitcher of milk, from the fair of Coleraine,
When she saw me she stumbled, the pitcher down tumbled,
And all the sweet buttermilk watered the plain.

"Oh what shall I do now—'twas looking at you, now;
Sure, sure, such a pitcher I'll ne'er meet again!
'Twas the pride of my dairy, Oh! Barney MacCleary,
You're sent as a plague to the girls of Coleraine."

I sat down beside her, and gently did chide her
That such a misfortune should give her such pain;
A kiss then I gave her, and, ere I did leave her,
She vowed for such pleasure she'd break it again.

'Twas hay-making season—I can't tell the reason—
Misfortunes will never come single, 'tis plain;
For very soon after poor Kitty's disaster
The devil a pitcher was whole in Coleraine.

SPEEDY TYPIST LIKELY TO BE A MAN

Men are more rapid typists than women. Men are slower typists than women. Dr. J. McKeen Cattell, president of the Psychological corporation, believes that these apparently contradictory statements are true, although the question cannot be definitely determined until sufficiently large groups of men and women have been examined and compared.

But the typist of exceptional speed would be more likely to be a man, Dr. Cattell says, for it has been demonstrated that men are more variable than women. Men are more frequently color blind than women, but the great colorists have been men as are the great performers on the piano and violin. This difference extends to the lower animals. The male bird or mammal is more brightly colored and variously ornamented and armed than the female.

What we need, Dr. Cattell adds, is more knowledge both concerning sex differences and concerning the conditions which make a man or a woman a good typist. We need to measure the performance of large groups so that we can say that among all the typists in New York City, this particular one stands in the first tenth for speed, in the second tenth for accuracy, in the lowest tenth for intelligence. She is good as a typist, but can never be a stenographer, or private secretary. Another girl may stand high in intelligence, but low in speed and accuracy. Tests can be used to determine whether she can or can not acquire speed and accuracy. What the psychologist wants to do is to predict. An ordinary examination tells what a student has learned; we now have, and hope to perfect, tests that will foretell what a person will be able to do.

DEHORN AND BRAND THEM

[Philadelphia Inquirer]

So W. Z. (Red) Foster, strike leader, communist, agitator and general all-around nuisance, is an object of the solicitous attention of the authorities again? Well, both he and his gang of industrial wreckers will continue to prove a menace so long as they are handled in the delicately considerate manner that has been the policy of the government in the past. It seems about time to de-horn and brand this outfit.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

A pickpocket arrested more than a score of times, not only defies the courts to send him to prison, but even to try him. Up to the present the courts and police seem helpless. On one charge this pickpocket has been at liberty eighteen months, getting delay each time his case comes up, by the simple process of asking for it. It would be interesting to know why Los Angeles makes a pet of him, while there is not another California city where he is allowed to remain fifteen minutes.

HENRY JAMES

In making charges against the rottenness of Chicago, a minister in that city called attention to the fact that any rogue could give a bond, and that the bond never was collected. There is no surer sign that the criminal element has a pull.

Recently in this county a man was found guilty of an offense that alone should have earned him a lifetime in the penitentiary. The pronouncing of sentence was deferred, and meanwhile the prisoner was permitted to go on $500 bail. This with many allegations on file, charging him with a long list of similar offenses against young women lured to his office.

The way of the transgressor is supposed to be hard. That it should be made easy by the instrumentalities instituted on behalf of justice, does not seem wholly commendable. There are many instances in which bail ought to be fixed at the highest constitutional limit, but is so fixed that it in no way inhobits the one who gives it from going far from the scene of his crimes, unpunished and impenitent.

Somebody takes the trouble to remark that the poor boy has a chance in America. Assuredly he has. The greater America becomes, the greater the chance. Former Governor Al. Smith of New York was the individual whose career had occasioned the comment. As a lad he sold papers. Recently he had a chance to drive Hearst out of New York politics. He could not take it without great risk. He was offered the candidacy for the senatorship with Hearst as candidate for governor, or the powers said they would reverse this plan if he desired. He did not desire anything but to keep the ticket clean of Hearst, and he had his way. Of course a man like that had to succeed, no matter what had been his start.

There was considerable interest stirred up when Peggy Joyce was out this way, heralding her determination to lead a useful life. She was about to build a string of theaters, yes indeed, and the reporters, innocent chaps, knocked silly by the Joyce presence, seemed to believe every word, all of it fairy tale stuff. Peggy has went, as San Francisco's famed Mose Gunst used to say. She built no theater, and her only investment so far as known, was the purchase of an automobile, a transaction over which the dealer feels so sorry that he has taken his grief to court.

Eighteen automobile camps in Los Angeles are said to be violating the laws governing the important matter of sanitation. This argues a neglect that the authorities should not tolerate. It is not desirable that tourists by machine go away with the right to tell that the largest city in the state failed to afford them decent accommodations.

* * *

U. S. Grant, just returned from one of his numerous European trips, says that Americans are hated over there. While he seems to base this belief on a certain affront to which he was subjected, there doubtless is broader ground for it. The United States is not highly esteemed in Europe, for it is deemed to be a quitter. This estimate is due to the fact that it quit. It left a job, half done. With its continued aid the job could have been completed. In addition to this, there is a feeling of jealousy because America is prosperous, and Europe not only is not prosperous, but faint in the hope of ever being so.

Just after delivering an able lecture on health, Arnold Ehret, a Swiss visiting Los Angeles, fell dead. Showing that you cannot always tell. Of course it is well to plan for tomorrow, for tomorrow may come. A few days ago a gathering of people averaging about seventy years, held a meeting at San Francisco. There they signed a solemn compac to meet in the same room seventy-five years hence. But perhaps they won't. The building may be razed before the expiration of the period mentioned.

An elderly bank thief, brought back from the penitentiary to testify against one of his alleged confederates, declined to testify. The court could not force him to say a word. To be in prison for contempt is no greater hardship than to be there for something else.

It is pleasing to note that the authorities will not permit a man while blindfolded to try to drive an automobile from Los Angeles to San Francisco. Doubtless, however, he would be welcome to go to the edge of the desert, point his machine to the interior, blindfold himself, and go as far as he liked.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

It's too bad about Derrick Marne, but I do not think he can be saved. He has fallen a victim to laissez faire. Ten years from now poor old Derrick may be drifting through the downtown streets touching old friends for quarters. Lots of the drifters go that way.

"Let's go out and play a round of golf," some one said at the club.

Derrick was agent for one of the new machines. For the first few years he hustled to beat time. He was on the street late at night and when you got off at your office corner in the morning there was Derrick, lying in wait for the early worm. Then he began to make fat-forming habits. You know what I mean—two hours at lunch—four afternoons at week at golf—too many theaters—too many late mornings. He looked like a million dollars with his ruddy health and his new clothes and an air of purring satisfaction.

Then he began to let go. That's what I mean in my use of laissez faire.

His secretary did the work. If his salesmen brought in enough orders to cover their salaries he seemed content. He ceased to elbow and claw and hustle. Derrick seemed to feel that his chair in life had been padded with a permanent endowment. Each year his office was doing a little more business than it did the year before.

Then he lost his agency. That was not enough to content the live wires who built the machine that Derrick had been selling. They wanted to do a heap more business each year. The man who has replaced him is so dynamic that he is positively unpleasant, but he sells the goods.

Poor old Derrick has shot his bolt, I'm afraid. After a man loses the habit of hustling he finds it difficult to build that habit over again. Ten years from now poor old Derrick will be borrowing quarters on street corners.

Too much laissez faire.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

WOMEN'S WORLD COUNCIL WILL MEET IN '25

Washington, D. C. Oct. 13—A world council of women will meet in the United States in 1925. Women leaders from practically every civilized land will visit America at that time, guests of the National Council of Women of which the General Federation of Women's Clubs a part.

Plans for the Quinquennial of the International Council of Women which is the first meeting of this body ever scheduled for America were launched immediately upon the receipt of a cablegram to Mrs. Moore announcing the decision of the Executive Committee of the International Council of Women at the Hague, to accept the invitation of the United States Council to hold its 1925 meeting in Washington, D. C.

In order to ensure the presence of women from every one of its foreign organization at the Norwegian Quinquennial in 1920, an appropriation of 40,000 kroner from the Storting was secured to help defray the expenses of the delegates from Iceland, Ukraine, Greece, Serbia and Austria.

In keeping with this precedent the United States Council of Women will proceed to take the necessary steps to appeal to Congress to either furnish transportation or to charter a special steamship liner to place at the disposal of the foreign delegation.

The International Council is composed of leaders of the national organization of 28 countries including the United States.

The objects of the International Council are:

An international propaganda to make permanent peace possible by removing misunderstandings and political obstacles, thus removing cause for future wars.

To make women's vote count for the prevention of world catastrophe.

To raise the political status of women.

To better the condition of children and women everywhere.

To substitute sympathy and justice and faith between nations for tanks and poison gas and international suspicion.

It is believed that the meeting will bring together for the first time practically all of the great women leaders of the world.

The National Council of Women, Inc., of the United States of America, which will be official hostess, was founded by Susan B. Anthony. Officers are:

President, Mrs. Philip North Moore, St. Louis; first vice president, Mrs. Nathaniel E. Harris, Bradford, Pa.; second vice president, Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, Minneapolis, Minn.; third vice president, Miss Anna A. Gordon, Evanston, Ills.; fourth vice president, Mrs. A. Ross Hill, Washington, D. C.; recording secretary, Mrs. Mary M. North, Herndon, Va.; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Flo Jamison Miller, Monticello, Ills.; treasurer, Dr. Emma F. Bower, Port Huron, Mich.; auditor, Mrs. Ruth May Fox, Salt Lake City, Utah; historian, Miss Lucy E. Anthony, Moylan, Penn.

NEW MERCHANDISE IN STORE WINDOWS

As for millinery, their hats are all hand made by an expert who trims them there in the store.

This shop is showing a new house dress known as "Day time frocks" that have never before been shown. They are so attractive and neat looking, and the prices are within reach of all. These dresses come in crepes and ginghams.

For the girl who loves outdoor sports, the novelty polo coats in plaids and tweeds are good. They are so comfortable and warm for driving or any sport wear.

LONGER SKIRTS MEAN HIGHER HEELS.

As you have probably noticed, longer skirts are here. "The longer skirts mean higher heels and they are coming," says Mr. Winkler of the Buster Brown Shoe store on North Brand. For quite some time, low and military heels have been the vogue, but for dress wear this season the high heel predominates. The patent leather is first in popularity and then comes black satin, black kid and brown kid. The combination and panel effects are also good. Straps will predominate, either one or two and the cross strap is greatly favored.

FOR THAT NEW FALL SUIT OR COAT.

If you are considering a new coat or suit for fall, it would be wise to consult the Irish Linen Store for they have a wonderful new supply of modish materials. Broadcloth, French serge, and tricotine, are among the few and you will find the popular plaid skirtings too, especially in shades of red. These are all wool materials and have been double shrunk.

LACE AND METALLIC CLOTH FOR HATS.

Dame Fashion says that if you wear the latest in hats for dress wear, they must be of metallic cloth or lace. For the petite miss, what could be more becoming than a small black lace hat, especially convenient for dancing or dinner wear. Then for street or afternoon the metallic cloth is used as well as velvet. Mrs. Yarbrough on West Broadway has an attractive display of fall and winter hats.

WEBB'S NEW COATS ARE IN.

H. S. Webb and Company on Broadway and Brand are showing a new line of winter coats and a very attractive feature about them is the price. Of course, the materials are all stylish, such as Bolivia, Velvetta, trimmed either with hand embroidery or braid.

They carry a good line of canton crepe, crepe de chine and taffeta dresses. Some are beaded and some embroidered, just as suits your individual taste.

Their line of Gossard corsets is complete and they have a new R. and G. model, known as the elastic side. These are made for all figures.

SMART MID-WINTER MILLINERY.

The Harriett Wilson Shop on South Brand is showing an entirely new line of mid-winter millinery. Her smart and snappy veils are attracting considerable attention, and the demand is fast increasing. For really, a veil does add to one's appearance, especially on a windy day. Miss Wilson says that bonnet effects or large drooping brims are good, and with lace, metallic cloth and jet trims.

MILLS FINE FURS.

To the woman who really appreciates the value of good, genuine furs, Mills Fine Furs, on South Brand, should prove exceedingly interesting. Mr. Mills says, "We can't seem to make people understand that we make the furs right here in Glendale. They are always asking when it will be back." Mr. Mills is an expert in fur designing or remodeling and all work is done right here in town. He says that no job is too big or too small. He urges anyone considering the purchase of modeling of furs, to get their orders in early before the Christmas rush.

The new lodger was singularly quiet and extremely reticent as to his affairs and promised to give little or no trouble.

But at 11 o'clock the night was rendered hideous by a pandemonium of weird groans, hair raising shrieks and wails, with intermittent outbursts of frenzied animation. Then the raucous voice of the landlady was wafted up the stairs:

"What's the matter now Mr. Manglini? Whatever are you doing?"

"Only practising the violin," he replied, sweetly.

"Oh, is that all?" said the mollified woman. "I thought you was a-shiftin' the bed."

THE HAT MAKES THE WOMAN

wide face often looks like a full moon surrounded by a huge halo.

The average woman will find that the medium brimmed hat with a slight droop is more flattering to her, especially if she has passed the first bloom of youth. The modernized poke is an ideal hat of this sort and when trimmed with a band of burnt ostrich or a flounce of black lace the effect is sure to be softening and youthful.

Turbans for Evening Wear

The draped turban is popular in spite of its long reign, but this season it will be confined mostly to evening wear. Brilliant colored metallic cloth, blonde velvet combined with folds of gold lame satin of the same shade, and silver cloth are the favorite materials for these evening models. There is a tendency toward height in front rather than for width at the sides on this season's turban and the drape follows the line of the Russian influence rather than of the Hindu.

Tricorns of velvet are among the smartest of the season's street hats. Where the peak in front is too extreme they are using Pompons of monkey fur or many looped ribbon bows.

Felt Toques and Fur

For morning wear soft felt toques in shades of amber, strawberry and beige are worn almost exclusively. They are trimmed in self colored ribbon bows at the side, in glycerined ostrich or in silver metallic ribbon. One of the most popular of these felt models comes in pastel colors with a small dropping brim edged with silver ribbon and a band of wide silver ribbon about the crown terminating in a large bow at one side.

Kolinsky fur is being combined with red and brown velvets on some of the high priced hats. But it is doutful whether these will make an appearance for several weeks. Toques of the tamoshanter types are made of Kolinsky fur, being higher on one side than on the other and using a bronze diadem design in front with ruby or amber colored stones. Gray squirrel and dor-mouse in the natural color will also be used for the all fur toque.

CHICKEN AND MUSHROOM CROQUETTES

Mix one and one-third cups cooked chicken meat chopped, two-thirds cup chopped mushrooms, one-half teaspoon salt, one-fourth teaspoon celery salt, few grains cayenne, teaspoon lemon juice, few drops onion juice, teaspoon finely chopped parsley, one cup white sauce. Make into croquettes.

BAROMETERS.

Tiny little flower pots or butterflies that tell the changes of temperature by changing color are most inexpensively priced.

AFTERNOON DRESSES

LITTLE VOLSTEAD ACT BRINGS FIVE VICTIMS AND SOME $350 IN FINES TO BURBANK COURT

John and Vilma Bovero of Ocean Park Plead Guilty and Are Fined $75 Each by Judge Crawford

TWO LOCAL PEOPLE FACE SIMILAR CHARGE

F. J. Lally and Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Are Arrested Tuesday Night and Tried in Recorder's Court Wednesday

John and Vilma Bovero, who were found by the Burbank police in the office of a local physician, following an accident which occurred on September 30, plead guilty to the charge of transporting liquor through Burbank, when they appeared in Judge Crawford's court yesterday, and were fined $75 each. Attorney Fisher handled the case.

Mario Boscalia, who was not caught by the Burbank police until later, did not appear in court today, and will face Judge Crawford later.

A fourth person, police believe, was in the car at the time of the accident, but was not located and the Boveros would not reveal his name.

On September 30th the wrecked car was found by police officers of Burbank, and John and Vilma Bovero, who were in the car at the time of the accident, were located by the police and held to face a charge of transporting liquor in violation of the local ordinance, when a pint of brandy and two bottles of wine were found in the car, it is alleged.

When the case was brought before the court some time ago the Boveros entered pleas of not guilty and appeared with their lawyer, Attorney Fisher today. But their pleas were of a different note today, and when they plead guilty to the charge Judge Crawford fined them $75 each. The Boveros are from Ocean Park.

F. J. Lally and Mr. and Mrs. Holmes, local people, faced the same charge at yesterday morning's session. Lally, who, it is said, persuaded the Holmes couple to go with him Tuesday evening was fined $125 by Judge Crawford yesterday morning. A fine of $75 was levied upon Holmes and the case of his wife was dismissed.

The three were caught in an automobile Tuesday night and Lally and Holmes were forced to spend the night in jail. Mrs. Holmes was released pending the trial.

When the case came before Judge Crawford yesterday morning Lally admitted that he was responsible for persuading the couple to accompany him, and on the strength of his admission, the case of Mrs. Holmes was dismissed and her husband's fine set at $75.

Kiwanis Club Acts For Paved Road

The dirt road leading to the high school will be paved in the very near future, if the Kiwanis Club keeps up its active campaign in the matter. More than forty attended the noonday meeting held in the dining room office of the Elizabeth hotel yesterday.

The matter of the paving of the unsightly road was brought up and referred to a committee which will take immediate action in the matter, it is said. The club will hear the results of the committee's action at the next meeting, Wednesday.

The board of directors announced the appointment of committees which will be permanent.

The Kiwanis Club has a membership of about sixty now and is growing daily.

CLARK'S NINERS SIGN UP TWO GAMES

To Play Los Angeles Independents Here and San Diego There

Sam Clark's local team, which is trying to tie up with the city of Burbank as its official team will play the Los Angeles Independents next Saturday on the high school field. The Independents are a pretty snappy team but Clark's team, with the string of victories behind it is fairly confident of a win.

Sunday the team goes to San Diego to play the team there.

FLAPPER OF 1922 WILL RECOVER, SAYS SHE

By LUCILE F. SAUNDERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 12.—"Flappers are going to make good mothers for the coming generation."

This is the declaration of Miss Marjorie Martin, the young Brooklyn woman who has just been made head of the First National Standardized Health Exhibit put on this month. She is the first woman to hold a national post of this character.

"I haven't a single 'don't' to lay down to the modern girl.

I can't understand why we have all this worrying about Mother Nature not keeping on the job. The good wins out and our exhibit is just to show how to help the cause along.

"The mother of the future is going to be better than the girls of the sixties, who thought it improper to have limbs, to say nothing of exercising them.

"The tomboyish reaction of the flapper is wholesome after the era of sophistication we have had."

Miss Martin admits that if she has no "don't," she has a list of "do" suggestions. Here are some of them.

"Do take as much care of your body as you would of your flivver and when a nut or bolt gets loose use the proper tools to get it back in place.

Do get back to the ideals of simplicity of two centuries ago.

"Do give your skin the same chance to breathe as your nose. You wouldn't put clay there, so don't wonder about it if your plastered complexion gives up the ghost.

"Do oil your crank shafts and brain cells with good looks and good music. Health is not only bodily comfort, but contentment and peace of mind.

"Do get out of doors enough. The health of Brooklyn must have improved 150 percent when we had a street car strike and the people had to walk. The most pernicious habit in America is spending that extra five minutes dallying at the office so you have to take a car for a short run.

"And as for the married couples, do have the grit to begin where your father and mother began instead of waiting until middle age to begin where they left off."

Miss Martin thinks the future generation is going to be the most beautiful the world has ever known because it knows how to take care of itself. Most of the real faults of flapperism she blames on parents.

"So far as booze is concerned," she said, "what can you expect of them when their own fathers and mothers are such persistent lawbreakers that it seems to smart things to indulge.

"Cigarette smoking did not start with this generation, nor will it end here. It will quit of its own accord when the medical profession has learned the exact amount of harm it does.

"Girls are even more sensible about what they eat. The idea that they lunch on ice cream sundaes belongs in the same class with the mother-in-law joke."

Sunday Musicale For Methodists

Reverend Allen, who left Tuesday for the Methodist conference now being held in Fresno, will not return to conduct the services Sunday. Mrs. Allen leaves for Fresno today to join her husband. Burbank Methodists will not know whether or not Reverend Allen is to return to stay another year as pastor of the church until the conference closes the first of next week.

Services in the church Sunday will include the following musical program:

Morning:

Anthem—"O, for a closer walk with God".....Foster

Solo—"Thy Will be Done"....Harris
Mrs. Homer Jones.

Evening:

Three solos:—"Where is My Wandering Boy?" Mrs. B. Peterson; "The Ninety and Nine," Mrs. George H. Greene; "The Holy City," Mrs. Munro.

Officers Testify at Pedro Court

Officers Gates and Ackerly of the Burbank force went to San Pedro yesterday to testify against the sailors who were caught here Monday for overstaying their leaves. The trial of the lads was scheduled for eleven o'clock.

WOMEN'S CLUB HEARS SPEAKERS

Also Decides to Buy Two Lots at Olive and Seventh

Dr. B. W. Forten and Dr. E. H. Thompson were the speakers for and against the chiropractic bill, amendment 16 which comes before the people at the next election, at the interesting meeting of the Burbank Women's club yesterday afternoon at the club rooms.

Mrs. Yale, a member of the club discussed a number of the proposed measures, following the discussions by Drs. Thompson and Forten.

The Women's club decided at the meeting to purchase two very attractive lots at Seventh and Olive streets.

BURBANK CARS SMASH.

Two cars, one owned by J. A. Grayson, the other by Mrs. Gains, both of Burbank, tangled in an accident which occurred on Raymond street yesterday afternoon.

The damage, which was slight, will amount to perhaps $15.

P. T. A. TO GREET TEACHERS AT RECEPTION

Churches Aid in Giving Affair to Bring Closer Relations

Burbank teachers will be greeted by the Parent Teachers' Association and the churches at a reception to be given them this evening at the new high school.

There will be a short program following the reception and a good crowd is expected. Representatives from the Baptist, Methodist, Christian, Presbyterian and Episcopal churches will be present at the reception.

The affair is being given in an effort to bring the teachers and parents of pupils of Burbank schools into closer association.

The teachers, school trustees and parents have received cordial invitations to be present.

Foothill Boulevard

Paving in the city of Azusa necessitates a three-mile detour on parallel road about one-fourth mile north through Azusa. Detour is rough, but passable.
